Live Grenade Removed From Vietnamese Farmer

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Working through a small hole in a wall of sandbags, two U.S. surgeons successfully removed a live grenade from a Vietnamese farmer's back today.

"It's in the box," Maj. Gen. James W. Humphreys Jr. shouted as he released the grenade into a wooden case half filled with sand after pulling it from the back of frail, Nguyen Tran Chinh, 52.

The operation in a shed behind a Saigon hospital took less than four minutes.

Chinh became a walking explosive Sunday when a Viet Cong fired the 40mm grenade into his back. The missile 6 inches long and 2 inches wide lodged in his lower back beneath the 12th rib.

Humphreys, a chest surgeon from Richmond, Va., was assisted by another chest surgeon, Air Force Col. Daniel Campbell of Inlet Beach, Fla., a British anesthetist, Dr. Tony Brown, gave Chinh a local anesthetic. Brown is attached to the U.S. aid mission.

The doctors, who volunteered for the job, operated from behind a 10-foot-high stack of sandbags. They were about four feet away from the patient.

Inserting their instruments through an opening below a large pane of bulletproof glass, they made an incision with a scalpel attached to a 6-foot-long steel arm.

Then Humphreys picked out the grenade with a 6-foot-pair of tweezers and placed it gently in the box of sand. It was about 2 feet from the wound to the box.

"If I had dropped it, the whole show would have been over," Humphreys said.

A U.S. Army demolition expert, Maj. Daniel Doty of Marina, Calif., carried the box to a sandbagged jeep. It was to be detonated outside Saigon.

The grenade can kill at five yards and cause serious injury far beyond that distance.

De Gaulle Announcement Will Produce Crisis For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles de Gaulle's announcement that he will stand for re-election as president of France is regarded by U.S. officials as assuring a severe crisis in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

These officials believe a major foreign policy objective of De Gaulle in a new term as president would be to reduce progressively U.S. military and political influence in Europe.

They expect him to attempt this primarily through a radical recasting of the alliance. The belief here is that he probably would focus first on French proposals for reorganizing the NATO military structure in such a way as to do away with the integration of Allied forces under a top American commander.

U.S. strategy and tactics for dealing with De Gaulle's anticipated move are still undetermined. Conferences on this country's European policy are under way. In general, the dominant view of administration officials is that if worst came to worst the United States would work with other European allies to maintain a military system within the alliance and without France, if necessary.

De Gaulle told a news conference Sept. 9 that so far as France is concerned integration will have to come to an end by 1969 at the latest.

In official Washington's view, De Gaulle, if elected as expected, would pursue the following major foreign policy objectives, practically all of which run counter to long-established U.S. purposes:

1. Rearrangement of French international commitments to give the French government full freedom of action. It is believed here this means reducing the Atlantic Alliance to the status of a traditional Allied relationship in which countries promise aid to each other in event of war but do not coordinate forces or strategies beforehand.

2. Whittling down American influence in Europe while increasing French influence. In this connection De Gaulle is considered to regard France's independent nuclear force, which soon will be operational, as evidence of France's status as a first-class power in the world and the only such power on the Continent west of Russia.

3. Denial to Britain of an effective role in continental politics. Several years ago De Gaulle blocked Britain's U.S.-supported bid for membership in the European Common Market and made clear that if Britain ever joined in the future it would have to be pretty much on French terms.

4. Denial to West Germany of any participation in any kind of NATO nuclear force, such as the United States has urged on the European Allies for several years.

5. Formation of closer ties with the Soviet Union wherever Moscow and Paris can discover common interests as a basis for cooperation. De Gaulle has spoken in the past of a European system of nations stretching from the Atlantic to the Ural Mountains.

18 Apartment Units To Be Built In Acres

Sale of land in the Hunter Acres Addition west of Davis Boulevard will permit construction of 18 modern apartment units.

R. D. Clayton today announced completion of the arrangements for the sale.

The air conditioned apartment units will be built of brick veneer, have hot water heat, plaster walls, ceramic tile baths, and wall to wall carpeting.

The property has been acquired by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Price of Cape Girardeau.

Clayton says that the units will be constructed by E. G. Gatley, formerly of Oran, who has built many homes in Sikeston. Gatley is associated with Price in the Southeast Missouri Lumber Company in Cape Girardeau.

John Cook Heads CAP Squadron

John Cook, a high school senior is new cadet commander of the civil air patrol squadron.

Cook is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cook and succeeds Elizabeth Bechtold in the position.

Cadet Sgt. Brian Underwood is executive officer.

Cadet Cook has completed all CAP aviation education courses and holds the certificate of proficiency, the highest honor a cadet can attain. He served one year as cadet aerospace education officer and has attended summer encampment at Topeka, Kas. Cook has participated in search missions.

Cadet Underwood, high school junior, holds five achievement awards for courses completed in aviation education. He holds the markmanship badge in the CAP rifle club, is a qualified CAP radio operator, and a member of the color guard. Last summer he attended the summer encampment at Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

Alcoa Raises Metal Prices

NEW YORK AP — Aluminum Co. of America, the nation's No. 1 domestic aluminum producer, today boosted prices. The action came despite what has been interpreted as opposition from President Johnson's administration.

Alcoa raised the price of basic ingots a half-cent a pound to 25 cents and the price of fabricated metal by an average of a cent a pound.

Alcoa's price move follows a week of controversy between the Johnson administration and the aluminum industry which began when Olin Mathieson Corp raised prices last week.

Senate In Brief Session

JEFFERSON CITY AP --The Missouri Senate scheduled a brief session today in an effort to clear the way for possible windup of the special legislative session late next week.

Jobless Rate Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dipped to an eight-year low of 4.3 per cent in October, but you'd almost think the Labor Department was trying to hide the good news.

Usually trumped at the start of the monthly job report—and sometimes even announced from the White House — the favorable figure was buried Thursday in the midst of a mass of other facts and figures.

Actually, the government is launching a major effort to switch the nation's attention on its oft-criticized unemployment figures from percentages to people.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, under new management, emphasized instead that the number of jobless men, woman and teen-agers totaled 2.8 million. It also reported total employment at an all-time October high of 73.2 million.

Traffic Fines Predominate As 11 Pay Off In Court

Judge E. R. Schrader fined 11 persons $255 last night in city court.

Wayne Hulehan, 900 Vernon, charged with exceeding speed limit, pleaded guilty, and was fined $26.

Amon Humphries, 413 Illinois, charged with failure to pay a fine for overtime parking, pleaded guilty and was fined $7. On a second charge of careless and imprudent driving, he also pleaded guilty and was fined $15.

Richard R. Riley, Blodgett, charged with careless and imprudent driving, and being involved in an accident, pleaded innocent. His case was set for Nov. 17 at 1 p.m.

Dannie D. Foster, Sylvia, charged with exceeding the speed limit entered a plea of guilty and was fined $30.

Billy Joe Lutes, Sylvia, charged with using profane language, entered a written plea of guilty and fined $15.

Jerry D. Aufdenberg, Kramer Drive, charged with failure to pay an overtime parking ticket, entered a written plea of guilty, and was fined $7.

Robert E. Smith, 728 North Ranney, charged with careless and imprudent driving and being involved in an accident entered a written plea of guilty and was fined $56.

Wanda Atchley, 327 Selma, charged with failure to pay an overtime parking ticket, entered a written plea and was fined $7.

L. T. Johnson, Hayti, charged with careless and imprudent driving and being involved in an accident, entered a written plea of guilty, and was fined $18.

Raymond Rinehart, route one, Murray, Ky., charged with being intoxicated, entered a written plea of guilty, and was fined $12.

Dempsey Taylor, Sikeston, was sentenced to 10 days work on the city streets for public intoxication.

Crash Critically Injures Woman

Jewell Botkin, 38, Poplar Bluff, was critically injured yesterday at 1:20 p.m., when her car crashed off highway 60 three and one-half miles east of Poplar Bluff.

She lost control of her 1963 Ford convertible. The car ran into a ditch, 350 feet through a woods, tearing down signs along the way. It stopped against a tree.

She was taken to a Poplar Bluff hospital with a broken arm, multiple breaks in her legs, and a possible fractured back, cuts and bruises.

A half mile south of New Madrid on highway 61, Thursday at 8 a.m. Guy DeLisle, 67, Portageville, lost control of his 1965 Buick, ran into a ditch and turned over.

A school bus, driven by Lewis Henry, 58, Wardell, was stopped on a highway, two miles south of Portageville Thursday at 7:30 a.m., when a 1962 Ford, driven by Frank Welch, 43, Topeka, Kas., slid into the bus on wet pavement.

Nine Killed In Explosion

TRIPOLI, Libya AP — Nine men including three Americans have been killed and a fourth American is missing in a big pipeline explosion at the Oasis Oil Co.'s Samah field, the Libyan government announced today.

The other dead were a Briton, a Lebanese and four Libyans. Two men were seriously injured, the announcement said, but their nationalities were not given.

The explosion destroyed the pipeline and halted production temporarily from three fields in the area southeast of the Gulf of Sirte, but the statement said production would be resumed to a few days.

Halloween Prankster Beaten

CHARLESTON -- An assault charge has been filed in magistrate court against John F. Rolwing of Wyatt, following an alleged beating Saturday night at the Rolwing home caused by a Halloween prank.

According to officers who listened to the complaint of one of the neighbors, three girls Carol Lessler, Carolyn May and Cherie Brown were soaping a window at the Rolwing home. Rolwing appeared, and demanded that the girls clean the windows. The girls refused.

The petition charges that Rolwing "assaulted, beat and wounded Carolyn May by striking her with his hands and fists."

Rolwing's case was continued, and his trial set for November 18 at 10 a.m.

Other magistrate court action Thursday:

Odus Douglas Fitzgerald, charged with defective brakes was fined $5 and $11 costs.

Theodore Gillespie, charged with failure to obey a reasonable request not to cross newly painted yellow lines was fined $1 and $11 costs.

John Edward McGugin, charged with careless and reckless driving while drinking, was fined $25 and $11 costs.

Danny Allen Presson, charged with having inadequate brakes was fined $5 and $11 costs.

William Earl Carter, charged with improper registration was fined $10 and $14.50 costs.

Lonnie Merle Adkison, charged with careless and reckless driving was fined $15 and $11 costs.

Charles Luter Howton, charged with failure to obey a reasonable request not to cross newly painted yellow lines was fined $1 and $11 costs.

John Evans, charged with disturbing peace was fined $10 and $16.50 costs.

Bill Gammons charged with non-support had his case dismissed.

Mark Ford, charged with driving while intoxicated was fined $100 and $14 costs.

Billy Vaughn, charged with public intoxication was fined $25 and $14 costs.

WALKING TO their preliminary hearings handcuffed are, from center left, Lonnie Garrett, Sam Irby and Billie Joe Garrett, all of East Prairie. On their trail up the steps of the New Madrid court house are Paul Haubold and Flip Dees, deputy sheriffs. The three are charged with felonious assault, armed robbery and kidnaping in the Oct. 22 roadside shooting and beating of R. L. Richards, Matthews route two. They were bound over to circuit court and $25,000 bonds were set for each at a preliminary hearing in magistrate court.

Zip Code Important For Christmas Mail Dispatch

Charles Schwidde, Farmington, postal service officer for Southeast Missouri, outlined last night Christmas mail handling procedures.

He told 53 representatives of Bootheel post offices at the Holiday Inn that they cannot stress enough the importance of the zip code.

He said that it is expected soon that all first class mail, except local, will be flown.

"This," he said, "will give us more one day service. About two-thirds of the state of Missouri now has one day service."

Courtesy and safety to the public were also stressed. He instructed postal representatives to place mats at the doors of their buildings for the people.

Post offices in the area will be open Dec. 12, a Sunday, for the public to aid in the Christmas mail rush.

He explained that the zip code had been instituted primarily because of variations in mailing dispatch.

Changes caused with the abandonment of railways and the use of highways to carry mail played an important role in the development of the zip code, he explained.

E. R. JARVIS, president, Jarvis and Conn Motor and Equipment Co., has been re-elected to serve a two year term for the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Scott County Retail Business Outlets Decline, Sales Gain

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Scott County has 380 retail businesses, which sell $36,161,000 worth of goods a year, a census of business discloses.

These businesses provide employment for 1,138 a year, and have payrolls of $3,205,000. Under the law the census of business must be taken every five years.

The previous census showed that the county had 415 business units, but sales were only $29,716,000.

County businesses have increased the sales by more than $6,000,000 within the five years.

Business places were divided into groups by the survey, to make the information available to the public.

It was found that the county has 31 stores selling lumber, building materials, hardware and farm equipment. These sell just under $7,000,000 worth of goods a year. The group also includes plumbing and electrical equipment stores.

Fifteen stores of the general merchandise class were found. These included variety stores as well as department, and merchandise stores. The 15 stores sell $1,426,000 worth of goods a year.

Stores with the greatest amount of sales and the largest numbers of outlets were the food stores. The county has 76 such stores, 32 of which are in Sikeston. These stores sell more than $7,592,000 worth of groceries a year.

The 21 automotive stores which sell automobiles, parts, accessories, have the second highest sales of any group. Their sales are $6,236,000 a year.

There are 41 gasoline and service stations. These sell $3,179,000 worth of goods.

Put together the automotive stores sales and the gasoline store sales and the spending for transportation is higher than for food.

The county has 19 stores, which sell men and boys, women and girls clothing, accessories, and such other items as shoes. These 19 stores have sales of more than $2,000,000 a year.

The group of stores which sell furniture, home furnishings, equipment, and other appliances and conveniences sell $1,763,000 worth of goods a year. There are 17 such stores in Scott County. Thirteen are located in Sikeston.

The county has 69 eating and drinking places, with the eating places being a majority. These businesses sell about $1,912,000 worth of goods a year.

There are 14 drug stores, with nine in Sikeston. These businesses sell more than $1,000,000 worth of goods a year. The survey disclosed there are 58 stores which do not fit into the groups listed above. These include liquor stores, antique stores, and others. These stores sold $2,853,000 in goods a year.

There are nine nonstore companies. These sell more than $600,000 in goods a year.

RECALLING AN ANCIENT PLOT

Guy Fawkes, a conspirator of long ago, is ceremonially burned in effigy throughout the United Kingdom every year on Nov. 5. A soldier who had been serving in Flanders, Fawkes was arrested as he entered a cellar under the House of Lords on that day in 1605.

With a group of other English Catholics, including Thomas Percy, who had hired the cellar where 36 barrels of powder were secretly stored, Fawkes was accused of attempting to blow up the British houses of Parliament and King James I on the day set for the king to open Parliament. The plot was the work of a small number of men, but it damaged all English Catholics and led to an unfortunate increase in the harshness of laws against them.

After more than three and a half centuries, Guy Fawkes Day is not a very solemn observance, and it's in no sense a legal holiday. Otherwise it's a kind of combination of the U.S. Fourth of July and Halloween and the French Bastille Day.

Fawkes himself was described by a contemporary as a "man of great piety, of exemplary temperance, of mild and cheerful demeanor, an enemy of broils and disputes, a faithful friend and remarkable for his punctual attendance upon religious observances." Ironically, today the day which is named for him is a time for fireworks and parties, a time--save the mark--for the very "broils and disputes" which were anathema to the sober Guy.

Some years ago, for example, the celebration got out of hand, and three persons were killed and scores of children and some adults were treated for burns, contusions, and shock. London's fire brigade answered more than 500 calls and in other cities firemen were busy until after midnight. Screen star Diana Dors suffered a seven-inch gash on a leg jumping out of a flaming house.

Last year Scotland Yard reported arrests of more than 100 firecracker addicts and others by midnight. Our usually staid British cousins would appear ripe for a Safe and Sane Fawkes movement.

* * *

The nation breathed a sigh of relief when Congress adjourned.

People in most sections of the nation, immersed in their own concerns, gave only fleeting and indifferent attention to the Congress' failure to pass a home rule bill for the District of Columbia.

It's unfortunate that the people are so self centered and preoccupied. The District of Columbia needs home rule. The district should have it.

President Lyndon B. Johnson was correct in making this a major administration effort. His string of legislative triumphs should have included it. The people should give this proposal vigorous support in the next session of Congress.

Washington D. C., is the poorest governed city in the world. Its people have been disenfranchised and they have no place to go to voice a complaint or to change undesirable conditions. They have no place to go, that is, unless they want to pursue the almost fruitless labyrinth of Congressional committees--a spider web of bureaucracy--to try to find out precisely who has responsibility and figure out a way to direct a complaint at the specific group of bureaucrats having authority to act.

The power to direct the activities, if they can be called that, of Washington, D. C., should be taken away from Congress for its own good.

The district reflects badly on Congress, whose only interest in the capital is in making it presentable to tourists and constituents. Foreigners, who judge the United States by the horrible manner in which the district is governed, must think that the nation is completely uncivilized and horribly governed. Washington has a history of muggings and violent crime that makes Chicago and other sin centers pale into insignificance.

The district's government is bad because nobody in charge of its government is interested in its problems from the standpoint of those who live there. The district is isolated and detached from the rest of the country and governed badly by men and women who don't live there and can't share the viewpoint of those who do.

The example certainly should cure the rest of the country from the temptation to look to Washington for the solution of all their local problems. Washington solves none of its own problems.

Washington should be a showpiece in self government instead of a mere bauble, whose monuments and public buildings gleam in the sunlight and whose broad, shaded boulevards and cherry blossoms attract the tourists.

If the rest of the country patterned after it, this country would fall to organized crime and inability to govern itself.

People in the hinterlands should not be indifferent to this challenge. They should demand that Congress act to give the people the same chance to govern themselves that they have.

FALLACY

"Right To Work laws violate 'freedom of contract.' They represent harmful interference by government in the collective bargaining process. Union membership as a basis of continued employment should be neither required by law nor forbidden by law. The question should be resolved by the collective bargaining process."

FACTS

* * *

A careful reading of the returns from Tuesday's election will demonstrate that President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society is not universally popular. It also shows that the people are not in the rubber stamp mood of Congress in all but the final days of the recent session.

While it is true that the results did not drench Johnson in cold water he is bound to have felt the effect of a chilly drizzle here and there.

While the President gave Alderman Abraham D. Beame only last minute, token support in the New York City mayoralty race, the endorsement was not enough. John V. Lindsay won the three-cornered race, which proved once more that the right-wing conservative cause is not a popular one with the people. William Buckley, the third man, finished far behind the other two.

Lindsay is a Republican but he soft pedaled the label in the campaign. He is not a typical Republican but a liberal one. It should be mentioned that he also was endorsed by the Liberal party, which is an important vote factor in New York City.

The race was of national significance. It gives the G.O.P. a new presidential personality. In New York City Lindsay will become the city's first G.O.P. mayor since Fiorella La Guardia 20 years ago.

Elsewhere some of the luster was rubbed off the Johnson success saga. What Johnson wanted he didn't get--at least not all.

In Texas, Gov. John B. Connally failed in a campaign to induce voters to stretch the terms of the governor and other state officials from two to four years. Presumably President Johnson voted for this proposal of his friend and associate. It was defeated.

Republicans won numerous local victories--retaining control of Louisville's city hall as one example.

But Republicans took their lumps, too. Strong endorsement by G.O.P. leaders failed to win the New Jersey and Virginia governorships for Republican candidates. In Virginia a third party conversative candidate with John Birch Society endorsement cut down on the available G.O.P. vote.

There was no such easy alibi for the G.O.P. in New Jersey. The result gives the state the first Democratic governor and Democratic controlled legislature in a half century--since the days of the late Woodrow Wilson, who was sent from New Jersey to the presidency.

All in all comfort can be taken in the fact that Tuesday was not a day for conformity or as a matter of fact not even for government by concensus.

BARGAIN ISOTOPES

The government is having a gigantic going-out-of-business sale. Prices are slashed to rock bottom and everything must go.

You needn't form a line, however, unless you happen to have a use for items like Strontium-90, Promethium-147, Cerium-144 or Cesium-137. These are all radioactive isotopes, by-products of the fission process in nuclear reactors.

The Atomic Energy Commission has announced sharp price cuts on all of them. Promethium - 147, for instance, formerly costing $5 a curie (a measure of radioactivity), will now go for 50 cents a curie, and as low as 20 cents a curie if ordered in large quantities.

Strontium-90 has been reduced from $2 to 50 cents a curie. A totally unwanted by-product when it is let loose in the atmosphere by a nuclear explosion, when properly packaged this material, like the others, has a research and industrial value.

Among other things, radioisotopes provide electric power for small installations such as arctic weather stations and sea buoys, are used in industrial thickness gauges, for the treatment of certain eye disorders and for various medical and industrial research purposes. You can't make a bomb out of them.

The AEC is cutting the prices in order to stimulate greater utilization of the isotopes and build a market, at home and abroad, for the proposed Fission Products Conversion and Encapsulation Plant to be built on the AEC site at Richland, Wash.

The FPCE will be a privately financed and run facility and will begin producing the isotopes commercially on a large scale in 1968, enabling the AEC to get out of this end of the atom business entirely.

SINCEREST FORM OF COMPLIMENT

This country's exports have an almost infinite variety. And more is sent abroad than products. Ideas and institutions of American origin make their way there too. Is this, as in so many other matters, it can be said that imitation is the sincerest form of compliment.

The supermarket seems to have been one of our most popular exports.

Writing in This Week magazine, Charlie Rice says: "Bonjour, Monsieur. Today I desire a can of kitty-food, a bottle of Napoleon brandy, two bunches of garlic, an electric tooth-brush, a slice of pate de foie gras, a pair of overalls, a half-ounce of perfume, a saddle of mountain goat, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, a ton of coal, six chocolate eclairs, a pair of rollerskates and a small octopus.' This could be a French housewife's order when she goes shopping. . . ."

The French, in other words, have taken to the supermarket idea with limitless enthusiasm. So, to varying extents, have the people of other advanced countries. This marks a far cry from the age when the housewife had to visit a long series of small, intensely specialized shops, in order to complete her list. By American standards, mass-distribution has been a late-comer to Europe, but it is there, thanks to our example.

Indeed, Mr. Rice writes that the French, if we're not careful, will ". . . out-super us Americans in 1966." It's possible, perhaps -- we have no monopoly on energy and innovation and ambition. But it is certainly not likely. American retailing, in all its branches, is unexceled in efficiency, economy and good service. The odds are long that this will continue.

NEW YORK (AP) —It isn't the things you've done in life that keep you happy—it's the things you still may do.

Achievement often tends to make you smug. It is the beckoning adventure of the unachieved that makes existence interesting and exciting.

It is good for the soul now and then to sit down and make a list of such possibilities, whether you ever really do anything about them or not. No matter how many things you've done, there are more that you haven't.

For example, I know a fellow —my wife is still married to him—who has never—

Stunned an octopus with a karate blow.

Eaten beef stew off a gold plate.

Flown in a glider or a space capsule

Saved a lost and half-frozen St. Bernard dog by offering it a drink from a small keg of brandy.

Worn a raccoon coat, a pair of spats, or a duck-tailed haircut.

Been a landlord or a loan shark.

Robbed the rich in order to give to the poor.

Raised chickens or chinchillas for profit.

Beat up any neighborhood bullies as the result of taking correspondence courses in muscle building.

Had a sandwich or a ball park named in my honor.

Been in charge of wardrobes for a burlesque theater.

Looked at the world through trifocal glasses.

Held a flashlight for Dr. Kildare while he performed an emergency appendectomy aboard a destroyer during a typhoon.

Hypnotized an angry cobra by blowing a soothing solo on my old Boy Scout bugle.

Subbed for an ailing high wire artist at the circus.

Won a game of hopscotch from my daughter.

Received the French Croix de Guerre —and two kisses on the cheek—from Charles de Gaulle.

Showed LBJ how to rope and tie an unruly steer or politician.

Trailed a mermaid across the Sahara Desert.

Been called "Bwana" by a New York traffic policeman.

Gee, when a fellow looks back on all the things he hasn't done, his life seems kind of empty, doesn't it? But if he's ever going to do them, he can't start sooner than now.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Revelation that Mrs. Roosevelt's phone was tapped during the war by army intelligence will not surprise those familiar with the eavesdropping activities of the Army, Navy and every other intelligence agency at that time --except the FBI.

Inside reason why Mrs. Roosevelt's wires were tapped was because she insisted on maintaining contacts with liberal friends and labor leaders. By no stretch of the imagination could they be considered either Nazis or Communists. But in the opinion of those operating the intelligence agencies, they were suspect anyway.

During World War II, Naval intelligence once stationed two cars of agents outside my house. I have forgotten why. When Congressman James McGranery of Philadelphia, later attorney general, heard about it from one of my neighbors, he phoned Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. Neither Knox nor I knew about the Navy's spying, and he promptly had the agents removed.

If Sen. Ed Long, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate committee investigating eavesdropping, is worried about current Internal Revenue wiretapping, he should review what happened during the war.

The OSS, predecessor of CIA, tapped wires at the drop of a telephone. Army and Navy intelligence couldn't sleep at night unless they had half a hundred rooms wired for sound. Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, once got a recording of a military session at which the brass hats planned to take over U.S. industrial production. Don used the recording to show President Roosevelt what Gen. B. B. Somervell and the military were up to and FDR put them in their place.

Even good old Harold Ickes once bugged the room of his associate on the Public Works Board, Chip Robert, when Chip and Marvin McIntyre were entertaining ladies in an Atlanta hotel.

J. Edgar Hoover's FBI did very little wiretapping in those days; only when authorized by a federal court or the attorney general. But every other intelligence agency had a field day.

ELECTRONIC REFINEMENTS

Today, wiretapping has become much easier, due to electronic refinements. It's now possible to listen in on telephone conversations without putting an actual tap on the wire. And it's reported that a TV camera will soon be available by which detectives or law enforcement officers, or suspicious husbands, can peer into private rooms.

In recent years, also, there's been quite a rash of electronic eavesdropping by rival business firms. This column once revealed the charge by Hazel Bishop that her chief competitor, Revlon, has wiretapped conversations regarding the TV show, "$64,000 Question," which prompted Revlon to snatch the show away from Hazel Bishop.

In the Senate investigation over Internal Revenue wiretapping, Commissioner Sheldon Cohen deserves credit for issuing a strong circular instruction to all personnel June 19 that there was to be no illegal wiretapping even on underworld suspects. They, too, have their constitutional rights.

Though Commissioner Cohen admitted to Sen. Long that his agents had engaged in some illegal use of electronic devices, it should also be noted that some of these gadgets can be used quite legally.

For instance, when tax agents raid a bambling casino to collect Uncle Sam's share of the take, miniature transmitters are planted in front and in the rear of the casino in order to alert police if the operators try to crash out. This is not illegal.

Tax agents also explain that it was not illegal to use two-way mirrors in about twenty revenue offices. Furthermore, there was good reason for it--namely, to protect witnesses asked to identify dangerous criminals.

Attorney General Katzenbach recently testified that the Justice Department has "lost" 25 informants on underworld leaders, later found drowned wearing cement boots. So the two-way mirrors were used to spot unsuspecting gangsters.

Out of 900 Internal Revenue offices, 26 were bugged, tax agents explain, and these were in intelligence areas where people were suspected of fraud.

Bugging rooms and using two-way mirrors is not illegal. Nevertheless, following Sen. Long's investigation, all have been removed.

BOBBY KENNEDY DENIES

Sen. Bobby Kennedy, who as attorney general led a vigorous crime cleanup, has denied that he authorized the use of wiretaps or electronic devices, as outlined in an Internal Revenue memo recently published in this column.

"I never knew of, let alone approved or instructed, the use of the kind of equipment as being used by Internal Revenue," Kennedy said. "I think that, although mistakes were made, Internal Revenue has made a major contribution to the fight against organized crime, for which all of us should be grateful."

Note: Rep. Carlton Sickles, D-Md., believes the police should get as up-to-date as James Bond; should start using modern technology in fighting crime. The congressman doesn't want them to engage in illegal wiretapping, but does think that American police haven't caught up with the techniques of "Agent 007."

H. L. Hunt Says

A QUESTION OF STRATEGY

Always unresolved in the realm of military strategy is the question of whether a strategy should be devised around the armed forces available, or whether the forces should be designed to suit desired strategy.

This argument is no more resolved than the age-old question, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?" Up to now, those concerned with national defense have taken one side or the other of this question; but the present Pentagon regime ignores it altogether.

Defense Secretary McNamara has proceeded in opposite directions with his strategy and his military establishment. Defense Department budget proposals have called for missiles to replace bomber and fighter aircraft. But the strategy has been directed toward small wars in which missiles are prohibited, and aircraft are our only means of gaining and maintaining advantage and superiority over an enemy.

Three years ago the Secretary stopped production of the supersonic B-58 bomber after only a few had been built. Phase-out of our B-47s is scheduled to be completed within the current fiscal year, after which we will have only about 600 B-52s on alert, some nearing 10 years of age.

We had some 1500 bombers when the present Secretary came into office. His plans call for reducing this number to 150, which is no real force, by 1970. 1970 is fast approaching, and the U. S. is involved in a war Administration experts say may last several years. B-52s are being used for our heavy strike force in Vietnam, but most are programmed for the scrappile, possibly before the Vietnam war can be brought to a conclusion.

The U. S. has built a missile force designed for total, global conflict, but we have disavowed such a war in our strategic doctrine. Pentagon experts prefer to confront Communism with conventional weapons in every "war of liberation" the Communists start anywhere on the globe. Asia's teeming millions are fodder for the Communist war machine. Airpower is our only means of superiority over such numbers. HLH

Dr. Marshall Says

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY AND HAPPINESS

1. Live right, be fair, square, honest. Beat nobody.

2. Work hard early and late and ask the Lord to help and guide you.

3. Be kind and stay humble and feel sorry for the poor, honest, hard working man, and then if it's best for you the Lord will let you prosper and be happy.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther Brothers Launch Labor's Jet Set To Span World, Internationalizing Unions.

Washington, D. C.: -- The brothers Reuther, who once bicycled across continents, now are launching a jet set for flights into some mighty spectacular horizons.

Their flying squads, made up of skilled organizers, sometimes will jet from labor crisis to labor crisis in the Occident and Orient. Or they will respond to aid calls from Asian unions. Or they will jet to lend a lobbying hand to allies in new African legislative halls.

Sometimes they will fly to "down under" continents to set up workers' education and vocational schools.

Someday they will spread across the globe to run a world-wide strike in the automotive or some other metal industry.

Labor's jet set has been a long time in the making. Call it the new global unionism. Call it the internationalizing of the labor movement. Whatever one does call it this new development will not sound as venturesome as do the following words of Victor Reuther:

"With the unprecedented resources of the free labor movement, in manpower, in experience, in leadership, in money, there can be no question that the new international structure will be built in time, that it will be effective and that it will inaugurate a dramatic new phase of labor union history."

Victor is director of the auto union's International Affairs Dept., and it should never be said that he lives in the shadow of brother Walter. First that shadow moves too swiftly. Second, Victor has been as active on an intercontinental front as his older brother has been on mainland U. S. A.

In recent months, Victor Reuther's department has helped Ford workers in a Venezuelan strike; aided G. M. auto workers at a long governmental board hearing in Australia; set up a brain center in Tokyo for global research; and created special councils in Geneva to cover each major auto corporation now producing cars and parts simultaneously on several continents.

It is Victor's theory that the international business and labor worlds now are so tightly knit that: ". . . Sneezes in Milan or Tokyo or Sao Paulo can produce influenza in Dagenham (Eng.), Detroit or Cologne."

It is the Reuthers' theory, therefore, that unionism should be global. For this, there must be organizers. Such men are now being trained so they can cooperate with such organizations as the West Germany's metalworkers, the world's largest union.

Thus, the labor jet set. Some 50 of them have been selected by the United Auto Workers (UAW). Some are UAW staff members. Some are local union leaders.

They are being grouped into contingents of 15 to 20 international trainees. They'll go into four weeks of residential training here in Washington and in Detroit. Their specialties will be international trade union, social and economic problems.

The study cycles will include stints at American University and Wayne State University.

The first trainee set has gone through courses here. They met on Oct. 18 and wound up Oct. 29. After briefings from labor's own international experts such as Victor Reuther and the continent-hopping Irving Brown, they made the rounds of embassies.

To go to all sides of the Curtain they were further briefed at the British, Nigerian, Swedish, Soviet, Yugoslav and Israeli embassies.

They are the first of what will become a special manpower pool. They will be ready to jet overseas on short notice. They are subject to call, says Reuther, for aid to foreign unions on "specific bargaining, vocational, educational, legislative, health, and union administrative problems."

For this globe-jetting program, there appears to be ample funds. Interest on the UAW war chest money is specifically allocated for world activity. Until last September, the fund had $70 million dollars. Then it dipped to $35 million. Now it is being replenished.

It will keep labor's jet squads flying for a long time.

Attendance Drive In Seventh Week

Special evangelistic services of the First Church of the Nazarene with Arthur and Margaret Gould concluded Sunday evening with several persons coming forward in the morning and more in the evening. One came seeking divine healing. The Church of the Nazarene believes in hospitals, doctors, nurses, and the use of all medical science. They also believe that a person may be divinely healed when it is in the will of the Lord.

Sunday will be the seventh in a series of ten Sundays in which the church is putting on a drive to increase its attendance. Sunday at 9:45 a.m. in the opening exercise, awards will be given for faithful attendance. At 7:00 p.m. there will be special music by the choir, organ, piano, Hawaiian and Spanish guitars, together with other special vocal numbers. All services during the week will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening service is at 7:00 p.m. The public is invited.

Church District Conference To Be At Morehouse

MOREHOUSE -- The district conference of the Assemblies of the Lord Jesus Christ will convene at the Morehouse First Pentecostal Church, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 11 and 12. The Rev. Harry Slattery of Muncie, Ind., will be the principle speaker. He will also be choir leader and is an organist. There will be seven or eight states represented and all the churches in this section, several speakers and special singing. The pastor, Rev. Nathaniel Lewis, extends a welcome.

Cut rolled cooky dough into squares, rectangles or diamonds with a knife instead of a cooky cutter to save time. A knife also may be used to cut biscuits into squares. It saves the rerolling of dough left over when the cutter is used.

The Modern Christian

What is Salvation-History?

In every age of man we see the coinage of new terms, and ours is no exception. The term "history" was taken on special connotations in our time. We speak of Salvation-History when we deal with the history that we find in the Bible. This type of history is preoccupied with the saving acts and saving plan of God.

It is highly interesting to note how the biblical writers deal with God. He is rarely dealt with in a purely speculative fashion. The God of the Bible is the God who acts, who makes heaven and earth and all things in them. He can do all things and show endless mercy to man.

The God so beautifully spoken of in the Bible is assuredly the God of history, and the great religions of Judaism and Christianity are historical religions. They are built on historical events.

Salvation-History has been built around pivotal events in both the Old Testament and New Testament. These events happened in man's daily activity.

It should be pointed out that for the Christian, Salvation-History is not confined to the Bible. It continues on after the Bible is completed. Salvation-History is continually being made, and especially in the life of each Christian and the world-wide Christian community.

Larry Corn Attends State Convention

JACKSON, Tenn. -- Larry Corn was one of 27 students from Union University who attended the state convention of the Baptist Student Union held last weekend in Cookeville, Tenn.

The meeting was held in the First Baptist Church with Tennessee Tech as the host school. More that 700 students from colleges in Tennessee attended the three-day conference.

The Baptist Student Union is a nationwide organization of Baptist students enrolled in colleges across the U. S. It serves as a link between the campus and the church, sponsors "join the church" movements and provides weekly religious activities on college campuses.

During the meeting, a $20,000 budget was adopted to support the summer missions program, a major project of the organization.

Last year, students at Union University collected more than $1,400 for the missionary project and the college was fourth in schools of the Southern Baptist Convention in the number of students who served as summer missionaries.

The convention will be held next year in the West Jackson Baptist Church at Jackson, October 28-30. Union University will be the host school.

During the past summer 17 students served in Hawaii, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Colorado, and Connecticut. Two of the volunteers were part of the group that built from the ground up a new church at Spencer, Tenn., in the Cumberland Mountains.

There's Magic in Black

by Helen Hennessy

Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Black and white Op Art prints, white dresses with black stripes, white tops with black skirts and vice versa make the fall and winter designer collections look somewhat like checkerboards.

And this new trend is responsible for a complete turnabout in what's considered proper these days in the way of underpinnings.

For years we have been told that the well-dressed woman wears matching lingerie. Now it's smart to mix and match—a white panty and a black bra, half slip or girdle. It depends on what color looks better under which part of the dress.

Black by itself is also a fashion favorite this season from the slinky one-shoulder black crepe to the Mod smocked sheath and black lace stockings. And as a result lingerie firms are showing larger collections of black than they've shown in years.

One firm, in business for 65 years (Gossard-Artemus) believes the rise in popularity of black undergarments is due to the fact that young people as well as more mature women favor black dresses today.

The under-20 set chooses black as its favorite way to look pared down and plain, yet to play up a smashing figure. They wear the kissin' cousin of the leotard — a featherweight black spandex or tricot all-in-one that shadows the figure like a second skin. For the Mod stance is as intricate as a Dickens plot — a covered-up "poor boy" look that just happens to reveal a perfect figure, flawless skin and long, shining hair.

The over-20s, on the receiving end from Paris, will mix black and white to stay in the Mondrian picture. And they, naturally, will mix black and white lingerie as well.

With the return of the long dress, black again becomes a basic and lace its most romantic form. And a handsome black lace gown demands a filmy black slip and foundation.

It's even expected that black gowns and peignoirs will top the Christmas gift lists this year. For in keeping with the current ultra feminine fashions, black spells the emergence of the femme fatale.

Black is the magic word in lingerie and sleepwear this season, in keeping with the ultra feminine mood of current fashions. Peignoir and gown set, shown here, of nylon tricot has empire bodice of appliqued lace and velvet ribbon straps. Peignoir features a lace yoke and sleeves are outlined in scalloped appliqued lace. It is a Gossard-Artemus design.

Cover a cardboard box with attractive paper. Set in the middle of a table for a child's birthday party. Fill with gaily wrapped gifts, leaving a long string attached to each gift and hanging over the side of the box. Let each child pull a string and get a gift to take home.

Morehouse Nazarene Church Begins Revival Meeting

MOREHOUSE -- A revival meeting at the Church of the Nazarene began Wednesday night and will continue through Nov. 14. The evangelist is the Rev. T. A. Wilhelm of Matthews. Services begin each evening at 7:30 p.m.

CRABBY THIEVES

BIG PINE, Fla. (AP) — Thrilled at finding three large banded tulip shells, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds cleaned them and laid them near the channel's edge in the sun to remove remaining odors.

The next morning her prize shells were gone, but they had been replaced by three smaller tulip shells. She was furious and baffled with a thief that would make such a trade.

Spotting a large banded tulip moving in the water, she pulled it in and discovered it to be occupied by a hermit crab. The crab and two brother hermits had stolen her shells and left her their discarded homes.

Woman's Civic Club Meets 's

The Woman's Civic Club held its November meeting in the community room of the Security National Bank Tuesday with Mrs. Kermit Bird and Mrs. Harold Kiehne as co-hostesses.

A brief business session preceeded the program which was given by Elaine Dockins and Gary Williams, the club's representatives to Girls' State and Boys' State. In their interesting talks, both students emphasized the value of these experiences to attending students and expressed appeals for continuing sponsorship so that future representatives may benefit from attendance.

The meeting concluded with a white elephant auction among the members amusingly conducted by Mrs. Muriel Canedy, auctioneer.

Charleston Blue Jays Flog Cape Tigers

By Don Voelker

The Charleston Blue Jays whipped the Cape Central Tigers last night, 7-6. It was touch and go throughout the game and things were really looking bad for the Blue Jays until they scored late in the second quarter. Charleston's defense was the best it has been this year. The Jays knew what was at stake and they had to fight hard to win it. In the statistics department Central had more total rushing yardage than Charleston; they passed for more yards, and they had nearly twice as many first and tens. The Jays fought hard and won deserving victory.

Cape Central opened the scoring in the first quarter when their quarterback Mike Schutte went over onto pay dirt from the one yard line on a quarterback sneak. The Central Tigers gave Charleston a real rough time in the first half with number 40, Sylvester Johnson, knocking the Jays around like blue dominos but when the Jays did hit Johnson it was like a swarm of bees after a wounded Tiger and the Tiger Johnson was the boy that gave Sikeston a fit three weeks ago.

With 55 seconds left in the second quarter Reggie Young caught a pass from Terry Brashers and then stepped over the goal line. Brashers kicked the winning extra point.

In the third quarter the Blue Jays tried several up the middle plays but were stopped. They just couldn't break through the big Cape line. Cape Central took possession of the ball on their 28 yard line and marched on down to the Charleston Blue Jay's 22 yard stripe where they were stopped dead and with 20 seconds left in the third quarter Charleston took the ball on their 22 yard line. The Jays were running hard and hitting real hard and the yardage they made was slow and small. Central ran for long yardage but when they came near scoring the Jays toughened up and Central could not break through.

At the top of the fourth quarter Charleston was held between their 34 and 28 yard lines three minutes. The Jays were forced to kick but Johnson belted through the line and knocked the ball out of the air. Central took the ball on Charleston's 27 yard mark and Sylvester Johnson went loping down the field like a big antelope until he came to Skippy Leigh who threw his entire body at Johnson. Johnson was thrown into the air, turned a flip, and came crashing to the ground. The Charleston fans screamed and yelled for joy when Johnson took to the air; one man along the side lines said, "He ought to keep his feet on the ground, he doesn't fly nearly as well as he runs." Cape Central bulled their way down to Charleston's 15 yard line where they were held for three downs. They then went on down to the Jay's 10 yard line where they were held for two more downs and then tried for a field goal but missed by about two feet.

The game ended with the ball in possession of the Jays who were on the Central Tiger's 37 yard mark. The grand stands were filled with Charlestonians and when the last buzzer sounded they all ran out on the field to greet the team. The Charleston Blue Jays are now the top team in the Northern Conference. They have fought hard for their present position and well deserve it.

C.C. Scott Makes 4th Hole In One

Clarence Scott, Miner, registered another hole-in-one, his fourth, at the Sikeston Country Club Sunday afternoon.

He made his ace with a 150 yard drive on the sixth hole. He used a five iron.

He started his string of aces in 1938 at the Murphysboro, Ill., Country Club. That one was a 138 yard drive.

His second ace was made at Charleston in 1948. That drive covered 170 yards.

His third hole-in-one came on the Sikeston course in 1960.

Schomehl Leads In Scoring

Tom Schomehl, Malden's fleet-footed halfback, continues to lead the district scorers and last week added one touchdown to run his total to 54 points.

Mike Whitehead, his teammate, is running second with 46 points. He scored three touchdowns and five extra points against East Prairie.

Bruce MacDonald, Dexter, and Ron Henning, Portageville, are tied for third place in the South Conference and the district with 36 points.

Robert Taylor scored a touchdown and extra point for Kennett and it put him in the North Conference lead with 34 points.

Robert Richardson, Charleston, scored a touchdown against Poplar Bluff and tied for second in the North Conference with Randy Taylor and Roger Oster, Perryville and Frank Powell, Charleston, with 30 points each.

Whitehead's five extra points gives him the lead in this department with 16. Ron Hamra, Portageville, has 13.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Don Voelker

The Sikeston Bulldogs have an open date tonight and this gives them a chance to rest up for their game with Blytheville next week. The Bulldogs are in good shape. Terry Scudder should be able to play next week and Kenny Cantrell will be back after being out with an injured ankle. There is a chance that Mike Garner may not be able to play next week. The Bulldog line is not up to par and the backfield is limping around licking their wounds. The Bulldogs were beaten by Cape Central two weeks ago and then by the Jackson Indians last week, the lowest scoring team in both conferences. If nothing else the Sikeston Bulldogs are making friends around the area. The Dogs have finished the Northern Conference schedule with a 5-2 record. They have scored 96 points this year and have allowed 51 to be scored against them. When Jackson beat them last week it wasn't an upset, the Indians went out on the football field with the call to whip Sikeston and they did, even if it was only the second time they have done so in the past 25 years. Sikeston's backfield is the weakest part of the team.

Sikeston's highest scoring player is Danny Lopp with 12 extra points and two touchdowns.

MALDEN AT POPLAR BLUFF

Tom Schomehl of Malden will lead the Green wave against the Poplar Bluff Mules tonight. Schomehl is the top scoring player in the district with a total of 54 points. Malden is the number one team in the Southern Conference with a conference record of 5-0.

It will be the Mules homecoming and that always makes it rough for the opponent. Bluff will have to put out all they have to stay up with the Mules. Malden 14-Poplar Bluff 7.

PORTAGEVILLE AT HAYTI

The Portageville Bulldogs are in good shape for their game tonight with Hayti. They had an open date last week and their boys have responded well to the rest. It has been five years since Portageville has beaten Hayti and once again this year Hayti is the favorite. The two teams usually clash on Thanksgiving but the games have been rescheduled this year.

Gordon Stout is Portageville's main lineman, making an average of nine to ten tackles per game. He is their stalwart on defense. Bruce Henning is outstanding in the backfield. He has a 6.0 average per carry which is excellent. The Bulldogs have been averaging between 275 and 375 yards gained per game. Henning is also their leading scorer with 36 points. They have scored 162 points and have allowed 60, and have a record of four wins and three losses. Portageville 14, Hayti 7.

PERRYVILLE AT JACKSON

The powerful Perryville Pirates will invade Jackson High School Stadium Friday night, intent upon foiling the Indian's plans for a second straight upset in the Semo Conference.

Noted for its ball-control tactics, Perryville will keep Jackson's linebackers busy with hard blocking on the line and the belly series inside and outside.

Pirate tackles Mike Littleton, 214 pounds, and Joe Long, 211, are the key men in the Perryville attack.

Larry Smith, Pirate quarterback, likes to earn his yardage by handing off to Roger Oster, fullback, and halfbacks Randy Taylor and Richard Tucker.

Though not noted for their passing attack, the Pirates can be dangerous in this department if trailing.

Perryville employs the Arkansas "monster man" defense, which features a roving line backer.

This combination has been successful against Poplar Bluff, Kennett, Potosi and Cairo, Ill.

Among common opponents, Sikeston and Charleston own victories over the Pirates. Jackson upset Sikeston last Friaday, and will meet Charleston in the season's finale.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the contest, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Perryville 20-Jackson 0.

DEXTER AT GIDEON

Dexter is expected to set up its important conference finish as it travels to Gideon. The Bearcats are 4-1 and trail Malden (6-0) in the Southern race. The two clubs clash next week in a Southern special.

Dexter turned in its best offense last week when it defeated Chaffee 45-13. It was only one point short of its total in previous conference games.

Gideon is 0-6 in the Southern Conference. Dexter 27-Gideon 7.

CAIRO AT EAST PRAIRIE

The Cairo Pilots will cross the mighty Mississippi to play the East Prairie Eagles tonight. Cairo's Jerry Zimmer has thrown 12 touchdown passes this year. He has made 37 out of 63 passes for a total of 900 yards gained. The Pilots have scored 153 points and have allowed 39. They have only been beaten twice this year.

East Prairie has a 1-6 record. They have a small team and they have really had a rough time scoring this year. Cairo 21-East Prairie, 6.

Puxico Indians At Doniphan Tonight

PUXICO — The Puxico Indians will open their season Friday night at Doniphan.

Coach Grady Smith will have the following boys for his team: Dale Norris 6'3", Art Norris 6'2", Ralph Corse 6'1", Larry Anthony 5'11", Larry Olivers 6'1", Dennis Doublin 5'7", Glen Frances 5'11", Randy Schott 6'3", Greg Crites 5'10", Richard Keith 6'2", Basil Smith 5'10", and Jim King 6'11. Fisk Pirates Open Season

FISK — The Fisk Pirates open their season November 9 in a game to be played at Broseley.

Coach Doyle Mabury will have five lettermen returning for the team this year. They are Ted Cunningham 5'10", Bill Zoll 5'7", and Sam Adamson 5'10", all seniors and Athlett Maness 6' and David Dugger 6'1", both juniors.

The Pirates will play in the Richland, Neelyville and Poplar Bluff tournaments.

The schedule:
Nov. 9 -- Broseley (T).
Nov. 12 -- Qulin (T).
Nov. 16 -- Bell City (H).
Nov. 27 -- Doniphan (H).

Missouri To Meet Colorado

Missouri's ninth - ranked Tigers collide with a tough and talented young colorado club Saturday at Boulder, Colo., in the Big Eight's top game. Second place and an eventual bowl bid will be at stake.

Missouri is a solid favorite, particularly if quarterback Gary Lane again shows the top form he had against Nebraska. The tigers will be in trouble if they have any letdown from the 16-14 loss to the Huskers.

Should it develop into a cliff-hanger, Colorado might have the edge with place kicker Frank Rogers, whose 11-for-15 field goal record this season is the best in Big Eight history. Missouri kicker Bill Bates was left at home with an ankle sprain.

Colorado, beaten only by Nebraska this season, stands 3-1-1 in league play with a tie against Iowa State. Missouri is 3-1.

Nebraska's unbeaten, third-ranked Huskers, shooting for a perfect season, are a strong favorite over Kansas, 2-2 in the league. Another overflow crowd of about 54,000 is expected at Lincoln.

A first division spot will be on the line at Norman, Okla., where 45,000 are expected to watch Oklahoma, 2-1, against Iowa State, 2-2-1.

Outside the league, injury, riddled Kansas State seeks its first victory in its final home game against Cincinnati, 3-4. Cincy is favored because of its strong ground game.

The Missouri-Colorado series has produced some humdingers at Boulder. In 1959, Gale Weidner's last two-period T.D. passes gave the Buffs a 21-20 upset. CU's 1961 league champs won 7-6 as Missouri lost on a two-point try.

Nebraska's biggest edge over Kansas is the backfield and at end with its great combination of Tony Jeter and Freeman White.

"Our offensive line is better than you think," said Jack Mitchell, Kansas coach. "Dick Pratt, 280, Mike Shinn, 232 and Bob Hudspeth, 266, have really helped us. The whole line is working well as a unit.

"But we don't have the breakaway speed and talent in the backfield to take advantage of their blocking."

College Football Roundup

Iowa, Rice and Kansas are teams in trouble.

The reason is simple: they play Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska, the nation's top three college football teams, Saturday.

While each of the big three has won seven games without losing any, Iowa has won only one of seven, Rice two of six and Kansas two of seven.

Iowa has the difficult task of stopping the No. 1 team in the country and in the process prevent the Spartans from clinching a tie for the Big Ten title.

Rice will try and delay second-ranked Arkansas' march to the Southwest Conference crown while Kansas will attempt to foil third-ranked Nebraska's championship intentions in the Big Eight.

In other games involving teams in the Top Ten, fourth-ranked Notre Dame plays Pitt; Alabama, No. 5, goes against Louisiana State in a night game; sixth-rated Southern California battles California; Georgia Tech, No. 7, is at Tennessee; eighth-ranked UCLA meets Washington; ninth-ranked Missouri takes on Colorado, and Kentucky, No. 10, plays Vanderbilt at night.

Michigan State never has won a Big Ten title although it tied Illinois for the 1953 crown. But if they get past Iowa, the Spartans have only Indiana to worry about.

Based on their record, the Spartans have little to fear. They own the best defense against rushing in the nation and are the second toughest team to score against. Per game, Michigan State opponents have gained only 57.4 yards on the ground and scored only 6.6 points.

Arkansas has its offense in high gear with Jon Brittenum's passing and Bobby Burnett's running sparking the way.

Larry Wachboltz, whose field goal beat Missouri last week, has an injured foot and may not play against Kansas, but Nebraska still should extend its winning streak.

Notre Dame plays a Pitt team that gave up 51 points last week, and Southern California meets a California team that gave up 56 points two weeks ago, then beat Penn State last week.

Alabama faces a tough battle with Louisiana State while Georgia Tech goes against Tennessee, which has allowed only 6.2 points a game.

UCLA tries to keep its Pacific Athletic Conference hopes alive against Washington, Missouri attempts to get back into the Big Eight race and Kentucky sends the nation's 10th best pass offense against Vanderbilt.

Chicago Bears To Meet Baltimore

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young phenoms of the Chicago Bears meet the old pros from Baltimore Sunday in the big game of the pro football weekend. Can the Colts corral Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston? Can the Bears handle Johnny Unitas?

The old bromide that goes "on any given day, any team in pro football can beat any other team" was right in style last week. The roof fell in on the old Hand picker for a 3-8 day. That left the season totals 34-15 in the NFL, 14-10-3 in the AFL and 48-25-3 overall.

It also left the selector in a daze. Maybe November will be better. Let's try again: (all games Sunday)

NFL

Baltimore 31, Chicago 28—Colts have won five straight since losing to the Packers 20-17. The Bears have won four in a row since bowing to Green Bay in their first meeting. Chicago got even with the Packers last week 31-10 and can move into the thick of the race with another victory.

Minnesota 34, Los Angeles 24 — They played a wild one on the Coast Oct 3, won by the Vikings 38-35 on a field goal by Fred Cox in the final seconds. Vikings' attack cracks any defense, especially the Rams' secondary.

Green Bay 20, Detroit 17 — This could be real close. The Lions held a 21-3 halftime lead when they met Oct. 17 but Bart Starr hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter and a 31-21 edge. Starr was shaken up last week and will need to be in top shape to withstand Lions' big rush.

Philadelphia 21, Cleveland 20 —This is really asking for trouble. The Browns figure to be hopping mad after that upset by the Vikings. Jim Brown made 133 yards against Eagles in first game but it took five interceptions to set up 35-17 margin.

St. Louis 27, Pittsburgh 13 — Isn't there an easy one any more? If the Cards perform like they did at Yankee Stadium, the Steelers can knock them off. If Larry Wilson can't play, St. Louis can be hurting. Steelers rough on defense when bowing to Cards 20-7 Oct. 17. Could be another big day for Bill Triplett.

San Francisco 17, Dallas 14 — Loss of John Brodie has dropped 49ers into underdog role but they seem to pack too much offense in well-balanced attack.

New York 14, Washington 10 — Redskins on the move with two straight over Cards and Eagles. Much depends on condition of Charley Taylor and ability of Giants' rookie Spider Lockhart to handle Bobby Mitchell.

AFL

San Diego 24, Denver 17 — Lance Alworth caught seven for 211 yards when the Chargers edged the Broncos early 34-31. Denver looked bad in game with Jets last week. Chargers should bounce back from defeat by Boston and may take advantage of chink left by injury to corner man Willie Brown.

Kansas City 21, New York 17 — The Chiefs just did take the Jets 14-10 in their first meeting when Len Dawson hit Chris Burford with two TD passes. New York thinks it hit its stride last week in 45-10 romp over Denver. Buck Buchanan and Bobby Bell lead rugged rush.

Buffalo 20, Boston 17 — The Bills rolled over the Pats in the season opener 24-7 but that was before they lost Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass. Boston finally broke losing streak in San Diego and ache to get even for that loss to Buffalo in the snow last December. Close but Buffalo wins on its line.

Oakland 21, Houston 20 — George Blanda can't do it every week and the Oilers will have their hands full with rookie Fred Bilentnikoff if Al Davis can solve his quarterback problem.

Shoemaker To Try For $134,190 Purse

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker usually doesn't accept a mount in a big race unless he feels he has a good chance to win. He's taken on Lou Wolfson's Swift Lady for Saturday's rich Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park.

But even the top money winning jockey of them all could be whistling in the dark this time. To get the fat end of the probable $134,190 Gardenia purse he and his mount will have to beat Mocassin, undefeated in seven starts.

Moccasin is the 2-5 choice to canter home in the 1 1-16-mile stake for 2-year-old fillies. Thus far, the mighty miss from A. B. Hancock's Clarborne Farm hasn't even been extended.

Shoemaker, who will be seeking an unprecedented fourth Gardenia victory, is counting on some help to spring one of racing's big 1965 upsets.

"If something in the race Saturday can go out and run with Moccasin, Swift Lady would have a good shot at winning it," Shoemaker said. "Nobody has been able to run with her (Moccasin) yet, but there may be something in this race that will."

Swift Lady has faced Moccasin three times already and wound up second twice, fifth in the other. Her biggest win was in a division of the Astarita at Aqueduct. She is listed as the 5-1 second choice in the Gardenia.

Moccasin, to be ridden by Larry Adams, is considered speed crazy and hard to rate, but as trainer Harry Trotsek puts it, since nobody has been able to keep pace with her even he doesn't know what she'll do if given a stiff early run.

Probably figuring that even Man o' War and Native Dancer were beaten once, five of the eight other probable starters are paying $5,000 supplementary fees each for the shot at Moccasin.

For Joy, Prides Profile, Hula Girl, Lady Pitt and Lady Dulcinea all are supplementary entries. The other probable starters are Lady Diplomat, Wiley Road and Cherimoya.

Each carries 119 pounds with the probable post time 4 p.m., EST.

Lopez Has Turned In His Uniform

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The greatest baseball bridesmaid in history has turned in his uniform.

Al Lopez, 57, is through as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

He piloted two pennant winners in 15 years as a major league manager — in 1954 with the Cleveland Indians and in 1959 with the White Sox. His teams finished second 10 times.

Lopez, who guided the Sox for nine seasons, has talked about retirement since 1960. He made his decision finally to do it Thursday at a hastily called news conference.

For the last month, the Sox brass had contended that Lopez was "making up his mind." Owner Art Allyn and General Manager Ed Short apparently had hoped he would stay as field boss.

Lopez will remain with the organization as a vice president, serving as an adviser to Short. As such, his decisions will carry weight in all areas, including the choice of a new manager.

Short said he has a working list of as many as 22 names but conceded it would be easy to screen it down to five or six. He would not identify any.

Most frequently mentioned is Mayo Smith, a top scout of the New York Yankees and one of Lopez' gin-rummy and winter-time golfing buddies in Florida. He previously managed the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds.

Another is Charlie Metro, White Sox coach.

Lopez said Metro and his long-time friend, coach Tony Cuccinello, could do a good job but that was as far as talk went about his replacement.

"I'll be on 24-hour call and I'll go wherever Eddie (Short) wants," said Lopez. "If he wants me to spend some time at Indianapolis, or Lynchburg, or Portsmouth, or wherever we have some of our players, I'll drop in."

Short said Lopez had expressed a desire to quit the last few seasons.

"There's no doubt it was a letdown for him when we failed to win the pennant this year and finished second," said Short.

Frank Beard In Hawaiian Open

By JIM BECKER

HONOLULU (AP) — Will Pat Beard get her bikini? Or will she have to settle for a muu-muu?

It all depends on how the putts drop for her golfing husband, Frank Beard, in the $60,300 Hawaiian Open over the Wailalae Country Club course on the slopes of Diamond Head.

Al Geiberger, the slender, relaxed young star from California, will have a lot to say about it, too. He grabbed the first-round lead Thursday in the Open—first official Professional Golfers Association tournament ever held here — with a four-under-par 68, one stroke ahead of Beard.

"It doesn't mean anything," smiled Geiberger. "I led after the first round last week, too — and I finished eighth." That was at Almaden, Calif., where Bob Verwey of South Africa, Gary Player's brother-in-law, won it.

Verwey had a 75 Thursday, and Player is not entered. Neither are Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer or Tony Lema.

But the tour pros on hand had their hands full with the 7,000-yard, roughed-up course by the sea. Only eight broke par.

Beard, who got married last Saturday in New Orleans and brought Pat, a 21 - year - old blonde with a sheepdog haircut, to Honolulu for their honeymoon, was one stroke behind Geiberger along with slender Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex. Both had 69.

"I want to buy a bikini," said Pat, "but Frank won't let me. If he wins the tournament maybe he'll let me get one.

"Otherwise, I'll just buy some muu-muus." Those are the long flowered gowns that the missionaries brought to Hawaii, that all the girls wear hereabouts.

Mrs. Breedlove Breaks Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Craig Breedlove's husband became the fastest man on wheels last Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

So Thursday she did something about it.

Lee Breedlove jumped in her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I jet car and streaked across these western Utah Salt Flats to establish a world land speed mark for women — 308.56 miles per hour.

Of course, it wasn't quite keeping up — Breedlove roared to the 555.127 m.p.h. mark Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

But it gave her the same title — fastest.

The pretty, dark-haired Lee's new mark shattered the 277.15 m.p.h. record set last September by Betty Skelton of Detroit, who drove Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops.

Lee's ride Thursday was the first time anyone except her husband had driven the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.-sponsored jet car.

Lee, who said she had never driven competitively before, spent a few hours Wednesday getting acquainted with the jet car and its controls. She took only three practice runs Thursday morning before going for the record.

Her first test run was clocked at 99 m.p.h., the second at 187 and the third at 288. Her husband moved the throttle stop up after each run.

Breedlove beamed as he pulled her from the car after the record runs and lifted her to his shoulder to hear chief timer for the U.S. Auto Club, Joe Petralli, announce a new mark.

"The car handled fine," the 28-year-old brunette said later. "It moved around the track some on the last run, but it wasn't hard to control."

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who wakes his wife up at 2:00 A.M. to tell her to stop snoring? Clem started this a few months age when he retired from his job. I am NOT retired, however. Clem can sleep late in the morning but I can't.

Last night when Clem woke me up I got real mad. I asked him what in the world he thought he was accomplishing. He said, "Nothing is more annoying than being kept awake by a snorer. The snorer should stay up and keep his victim company."

Isn't this the meanest thing you ever heard of? I do not snore on purpose. If I could stop I would. What can I do? -- POOPED

Dear Pooped: First see a doctor and learn if he can do anything about your snoring. Sometimes minor surgery will eliminate the problem. If the doctor says it is more complicated in your case, buy a cot and sleep in another part of the house.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a member of America's most persecuted minority, an ex-convict.

Now that I have served my time, I can't get a job. First I was truthful and owned up to my record. The answer was, "We appreciate your honesty, but we can't hire you. It's against company policy."

After several such experiences I wrote "No" under the question, "Have you ever been convicted of a felony? Twice the truth came out and I was fired.

How can a person survive if he is unable to earn a living? I am 39 years old, in perfect health and willing to do any kind of legitimate work. I am a bachelor and can work 14 hours a day, six days a week. I will move anywhere.

I keep reading that at least two-thirds of those with records return to jail within 90 days, I'm sure many of them would have preferred to go straight but society would not let them. When a man finds all doors closed he loses his courage and dignity. Please, Ann Landers, I am begging you -- help me to be a useful citizen. -- WILLING NOT UNEMPLOYABLE.

Dear Willing: I am printing your letter and addressing my remarks to employers all over the U. S. A.:

Where would you be today if nobody gave you a second chance? Put yourself in this man's shoes. I am asking you to give a break to men who have records. Some will fail you, but the ones who come through will have been saved for all time. And such a man can well turn out to be the best employee you could have. In my book it's worth the chance.

Dear Ann Landers: I am going with a gentleman who is separated but not divorced. Kenny and I are together Monday through Thursday. On Friday he moves right in with his estranged wife and children -- suitcase and all.

Yesterday I told him to go back to his family full-time or stop sleeping over there. He answered, "I can always get another girl friend but I can never replace my wonderful children."

Why doesn't this dumb jerk realize that one day his "wonderful children" will get married and have lives of their own that don't include him? By that time he will have passed up a chance to make a new life for himself. Should I make Kenny choose between me and his family?--SWEET ADELINE

Dear Adeline: Wake up and smell the coffee, Lady. He has chosen. THEM. I'll bet an old Dewey button if you told Kenny to flake off he'd go back to his family on a full-time basis. If it's marriage you want, forget him. You are a sometime thing.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Canada Expects Pearson Triumph

OTTAWA (AP) — Rarely have Canadians approached a national election with such apathy as they have shown in the campaign now drawing to a close.

Various reasons have been given, but the most plausible appears to be a public conviction that Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal party will win in Monday's voting.

Public opinion polls and surveys virtually have ruled out a victory by Conservative Leader John G. Diefenbaker.

The main interest is in whether the Liberals will win a majority of the 265 House of Commons seats and thus be able to form a majority government. That was Pearson's objective in calling the election after 2½ years in office.

A veteran political writer for the Toronto Globe & Mail, who has visited all parts of the country, remarked: "Nowhere is it evident that the people who will vote on Nov. 8 are listening to what is being said. In truth, very little is being said that is worth listening to."

In one Quebec district, the Conservative candidate has found a way to stir interest. He opens his rallies with the first reel of a Brigitte Bardot film, speaks for half an hour, then shows the rest of the picture.

"The formula has been a smashing success," said candidate Gerard Vermette.

T.C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, blamed the lack of enthusiasm on what he called the disenchantment and disillusionment of the public with both Pearson and Diefenbaker.

Diefenbaker, 70, has concentrated his attack on what he calls "the mess" in Ottawa — meaning scandals which have embarrassed the Pearson government. These have not involved the prime minister directly, but several high-ranking aides were dropped for alleged bribery attempts and for implication in efforts to get the prison release of an accused narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard.

Pearson, 68, has sought to make the main issue the return of the Liberal party with a solid majority in the House of Commons so it need not depend upon the support of splinter parties.

One issue that was crucial in the 1963 election is notably missing. That was the question of accepting U.S. nuclear warheads for Canadian missiles. Since the Pearson government accepted them, this has become a dead issue.

Another issue which has played little part in the campaign is anti-Americanism. Criticism of the United States was a major part of Diefenbaker's 1958 campaign and it bobbed up to some extent in 1962. Diefenbaker now is supporting U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The two main questions on U.S.-Canadian relations that have come up in the present campaign are the pact on auto parts and the question of exporting Canadian water to the United States.

Diefenbaker charged that Canada got the short end of the auto parts pact and Canadian consumers got no benefits. Since then, price cuts on Canadian cars have been announced and Pearson says the issue is dead.

The controversy over water resources began when Pearson stated that Canada would discuss the question with U.S. officials. Diefenbaker charged that the Liberals were about to bargain away Canada's valuable water reserves. Pearson replied that Canada's requirements would be assured before any water was exported — and besides the whole thing was a long-term problem.

Both Pearson and Diefenbaker have given attention to the controversy over the role of French Canada in the country and future constitutional changes, but this is not expected to figure in the election outcome to any great extent.

The Liberals go into the election six seats short of a clear majority. They hold 127 of the 265 House Seats. The Conservatives have 92. New Democrats have 18, Creditiste 13, Social Credit 9, Independent 2, vacant. 4.

Seek Two Men After Delta Strong Armed Theft

DELTA -- Sheriff's officers were continuing today an investigation to pick up clues to the identity of two men who committed strong armed robbery against a 59-year-old Delta man on Tuesday and threatened to burn his home with him in it.

Sheriff John C. Crites said two men strong-armed Clarence Haman at his home north of Delta, tied him up, ransacked the home and threatened to set fire to the house with him tied up inside it.

The only clues available today, the sheriff said, were that the two men were well dressed, wearing suits, white shirts and ties, and drove a dark colored car.

Haman was left alone about 8 Tuesday morning when his two brothers, Walter Haman and Paul Haman, who live with him, went to Blomeyer to cut timber, Sheriff Crites said.

At about 9 o'clock Haman was working near the barn when a car stopped at the house and two men got out. The dwelling is located on Route N.

The sheriff related that the men asked Haman to use the telephone and he invited them into the house.

Inside, the Men grabbed Haman, tied his wrists at his back with tape and bound his feet with a belt. He was taken to a couch where he was threatened and later taken to a bedroom where he was also blindfolded, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Crites said the men threatened to burn the house with Haman inside if he did not tell them where the money was.

The robbers then proceeded to ransack the house and when they left, Haman still tightly bound, was afraid they could carry out the threat. He was a bit dazed yet today.

Sheriff Crites said Haman related he worked his feet free sometime later and was able to get off the blindfold.

He walked a quarter mile through a field to where Cletus Givens, a neighbor, was planting wheat, and Givens cut the tape free from his wrists. This was about 2:30 in the afternoon, and Mr. Haman had been bound up about five hours.

Haman then returned to his home, where he was joined by his brothers. Sheriff Crites and Highway Patrolman Robert Mouser were called to the scene at that time.

The sheriff said the robbers thoroughly tore the house apart, ripping up the sofa, chairs, matresses. The television set and radio were also taken apart. A hole was even cut in the steps leading upstairs, the sheriff said.

Closets were torn apart, drawers, shelves and trunks ransacked. However, Sheriff Crites said, the robbers apparently got only a few dollars and some household items.

The robbers apparently did not use a gun, Sheriff Crites said, and little about them could be learned from Haman, shaken by the experience.

Book Takes Reader To Wilderness

August 16 was publication date for the eleventh volume in the Sierra Club's exhibit format series, THE WILD CASCADES: FORGOTTEN PARKLAND, by Harvey Manning, with lines from Theodore Roethke and a foreword by Justice William O. Douglas. Photographs by Ansel Adams, Philip Hyde, David Simons, Bob and Ira Spring, Clyde Thomas, John Warth, and others.

The Wild Cascades carries the reader into the last of our primeval landscapes: the Northern Cascades of Washington. But for its remoteness, this natural parkland would long ago have been one of our greatest national parks. The few who knew it found it without peer. As early as 1906, mountaineers who visited the area suggested that the North Cascades be placed in a national park. And in the 1930's a survey team for the National Park Service concluded that a national park in the Northern Cascades could "outrank in its scenic, recreational, and wildlife values any existing national park and any other possibility for such a park within the United States." Now in the 1960's another Park Service survey team has corroborated this judgment.

Earlier failures to respond to the judgments of those who knew the North Cascades and knew they should have been made secure within a national park left the region no worse than it had been. But the prospects for survival have now changed--drastically. This once remote region of tangled alps and deep-treed valleys is no longer remote. Bulldozers have pushed up the once hidden valleys to let the chainsaws clear the forests. The Forest Service, unable to resist the pressures of the loggers, has let the cutting climb to within less than a mile of hanging glaciers. The living matrix for this splendid parkland is being extinguished. And the land above timberline is not exempt from exploitation either. Helicopters are ferrying in mining parties who are staking vast areas in problematical claims. The Forest Service is not empowered to stop such mining in even the most priceless part of this parkland.

Surely legal protection commensurate with the grandeur of this area can be accorded. A law establishing a national park there can provide this protection. The Wild Cascades makes it clear why this protection is needed, and why the nation must wait no longer.

Harvey Manning was born in Seattle. He has been climbing mountains since 1948. A graduate of the University of Washington, he edits the alumni magazine of that institution. He is a director and editor for the North Cascades Conservation Council, the author of several books on mountaineering and a frequent contributor to books and journals dealing with conservation topics.

Theodore Roethke was widely recognized as a major modern American poet before his sudden tragic death in Seattle during August of 1963. A brilliant teacher as well as a poet, he last taught at the University of Washington and became a dominant figure in the literary life of the Pacific Northwest. The winner of a Pulitzer Prize in 1953, he is also twice the recipient of National Book Awards for THE FAR FIELD WORDS FOR THE WIND.

David Brower, Executive Director of the Sierra Club, is also the executive editor of the Sierra Club's publishing program, and the winner of the Carey-Thomas award for "the best example of creative publishing in 1964."

In an engineering seminar the instructor was explaining the process of "brainstorming" a problem. He pointed out that the subconscious mind works independently and will sometimes provide a seemingly spontaneous solution to a problem.

"Why, sometimes you'll even wake up in the middle of the night with a good idea," he exclaimed. "True," rejoined the class wit, "but your wife won't always go along with it."

Death Takes Holiday

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. AP --Death is taking a strange holiday in California.

The little green-walled, two-chair gas chamber in San Quentin State Prison - where four women and 190 men have paid with their lives for crimes-has executed no one in almost three years.

Death row, originally set up to house 34 condemned men, now has 47. Two have been there more than eight years.

Twenty more also would be there were it not for appeals now part of the courtroom log-jam likely to prolong the moratorium on executions indefinitely.

There's an irony in this. Gov. Edmund G. Brown tried to get the legislature to abolish capital punishment. It wouldn't do it. Then he asked for a moratorium on executions. The legislature turned him down. Now, in effect, he has it anyway.

The last execution was on Jan. 23, 1963. Since then a steady buildup of death row inmates has conformed to the routine of being locked up 20 1/2 hours out of 24 in 4 1/2 -x-11-foot cells. Under armed guard, the condemned men exercise the other 3 1/2 hours in a fenced enclosure. Their view of the world outside is what they see on television screens at night.

"The absence of executions in California for nearly three years is primarily the result of various court decisions including the Morse, Dorado and Griffin decisions," explained Walter Dunbar, director of the California Department of Corrections.

He capsuled these State Supreme Court rulings:

"Morse decision -- During the penalty trial -- in California the penalty is determined in a trial separate from that on the verdict -- no reference can be made to the fact that men with life sentences are eligible for parole in seven years.

"Dorado decision -- A suspect must be informed of his right to remain silent, his right to an attorney and the fact that anything he says may be used against him in court.

"Griffin decision --No reference can be made in court to the defendant's failure to testify on the witness stand."

Since the Jan. 7, 1964 Morse decision, rendered in the case of a San Diego teen-ager convicted of killing his mother with a rock and his sister with a baseball bat, there have been 26 penalty reversals based on it. Eleven killers have been retried and are back on death row.

Three got a switch from the gas chamber to life. One was Iva Kroeger, the eccentric sharp - tongued grandmother who buried a strangled couple in the basement of her San Francisco house so she could take over their auto court.

Legal breaths are held over this staggering question --does failure to tell a man, before he confesses, of his rights open retrial doors for cases going back into the past?

The California Supreme Court has ruled these can go no further back than June 22, 1964, date of a U. S. Supreme Court decision on which the California Dorado decision was based. Now California's attorney general waits for a U. S. Supreme Court review affirming this.

Otherwise, said the California Supreme Court, it "would impose impossible burdens upon the administration of justice."

The chief justice of the California Supreme Court, Roger J. Traynor emphasized recently that the courts are not "coddlers of criminals," adding: "They deal sternly with those who take the law in their own hands. When they insist that an accused be brought into court and tried by fair procedures, even if it entails a new trail, they may slow down the speed of justice but they also give every man assurance that, should he ever be brought to court, he will be brought to justice fairly."

Because you prayed
The dwellers in the dark
Have found the light;
The glad good news
Has banished pagan night;
The message of the Cross,
So long delayed.
Has brought them light at last
Because you prayed.

Old Tractor Makes Lots of Sorghum

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. AP --Ralph Coan's old farm tractor goes round and round, but it hasn't plowed a furrow in years.

But it has helped him and his wife, Mary, literally squeeze a living from those rocky Ozark foothills by driving their sorghum molasses mill.

Coan began making "sorghums," as he calls the thick, tangy molasses, in his native Clay County, Ind., in 1921.

"We used to make a lot of sorghum for railroad crews passing through our area," he related. "I guess that's how I got started. Those were the best days."

The Coans moved to Missouri in 1957 and settled on a small farm 10 miles south of here. They immediately started making molasses with power furnished by a horse named Bob. But Bob died the next winter and Coan began looking around for some other way to turn his sorghum mill. "A neighbor of mine, an old Negro preacher, had started making sorghum about that time and he came up with the idea of hiching up his old tractor to run in a circle," Coan recalled. "He showed me how to do it and it's worked for me ever since."

Coan's mill is an assembly of vertical steel rollers squeezing the juice from the sorghum stalks. A long hardwood pole is connected to the mill on one end and the other is hooked to the rear of the tractor.

The tractor's steering wheel is wired down so that the old machine churns slowly in a 30-foot circle around the mill. One of Mrs. Coan's jobs is feeding the sorghum, grown in a nearby field, into the jaws of the mill.

The brownish juice runs from a spout under the mill's rollers into a gathering bowl. It then flows by gravity underground through a rubber hose into a 55-gallon storage barrel near the metal cooking vat.

The shallow vat, 10 feet long and mounted over a concrete fire box, is four inches deep where the juice is ladled in and about an inch in depth where the molasses is drawn off. A series of hand-adjusted baffles controls the flow of juice through four stages of cooking.

As he stands and lifts off the "skimmin's," Coan can tell when the molasses is ready by its appearance as it drips from his perforated ladle. He figures it takes about eight gallons of juice to make a gallon of "honey drip" molasses.

The Coans, he is 74 and his wife, 61, begin making molasses early in September. Depending on how cold the weather gets, they usually continue until the middle of December. They sell all they make to motorists passing by on U. S. 160. It goes for $3 a gallon.

Coan says he knows of no other such mill operating in his area.

"We're just poor folks," says Mrs. Coan, "but we work and make sorghum to stay ahead."

She said it was a hard way to make a living, but added:

"I'd rather get out and work hard than live off the other fellow."

Club Listens to In-Law Talks

MATTHEWS -- "Being A Good In-Law" was the phase of human relations selected for discussion in extension clubs this year.

The discussion at the Community club meeting Wednesday at the Community Center was led by Mrs. Troy Tippett and Mrs. B. B. Conrad.

The leaders presented illustrations on points of conflict between mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law--fathers and sons-in-law were touched on slightly.

Members were then invited to contribute viewpoints.

Mimeographed material on "Developmental Tasks of the Wife and Mother in the Middle Years" was distributed for further study.

"Family Circle" a film from the extension service concerning other aspects of family relationships, was shown.

Mrs. Charles G. Lindley, club president, presided. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Frank Stanley. Mrs. Lloyd Eby gave a report on the county council integration meeting. A committee was appointed to present a slate of officers to be elected at the November meeting.

Mrs. W. H. Gilmer, Sr., who was welcomed as a new member, showed a holiday door wreath she had made from corn husks and pine cones mounted on a plastic base, sprayed with gold paint and decorated with tree ornaments.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alfred Byrd and Mrs. Eby.

Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, the date of the next meeting was moved to Nov. 17 when Mrs. William Depro and Mrs. Floyd Hawes will be in charge of the program.

A Halloween masquerade party and potluck supper was held at the Community Center Saturday by members of the Community club, volunteer firemen, and their families.

Mrs. Charles G. Lindley, Mrs. Robert Burch, Mrs. Gene Warren, and Mrs. Charles Andrew were in charge of the decorations.

Three prizes in three age groups and categories were awarded the masqueraders. Games were played following supper.

Reports on the fall festival were made by Eugene Warren, president, and William N. Roberts, treasurer. Both organizations will elect officers to represent them on the fall festival board at the next meeting.

In observance of American Education Week, Sunday through Saturday, parents of students at Matthews R-V school are invited to schedule individual conferences with grade school teachers regarding their child's progress and to inspect samples of their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fairies and Mrs. Harold Burch returned Monday from Flint, Mich., where they visited with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vann and son, Michael, of Searcy, Ark., visited during the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Vann.

Mrs. Alice Meyers and Mrs. Ruth Gardner of Skiatook, Okla., visited last week with their aunt, Mrs. J. F. Thornburgh, and daughter, Mrs. W. L. Medlin.

Mrs. Lyman Whitten underwent ear surgery at a Memphis, Tenn., hospital last week. She is now adjusting to sounds, which seem amplified to the person whose hearing is restored by the operation.

Youth groups of the Christian Church went "Trick or Treating" for UNICEF at 5 p.m. Sunday. A brief dedication service for the $30.96 collected for underprivileged children of the world was led by the minister, Rev. Larry Long. A party for the youngsters followed in the church basement. Prizes for the best costumes for the preschool age group went to Douglas Scott and Michael Long; for the beginners: Linda Greene and Judy Eby; for intermediates to Kimberly Romines and Rosetta Whitten.

Highway Death Toll Up In Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A total of 347 Norwegians have been killed in road accidents this year, the National Council for Safe Traffic says. This is an increase of 45 compared with the 302 killed over the same period last year.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Dr. and Mrs. Lewell Butler purchased a home in a fashionable suburb last spring. They had 45 truck loads of dirt hauled in for a yard and eight pounds of grass seed put down.

Soon green sprigs began popping up — mustard greens and turnip greens. A batch gathered for cooking was pronounced tender and delicious. The Butlers figure the seed store got its seeds mixed up.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — B. P. Lozier has filed for divorce, charging his wife Isobel deserted him in 1933, two years after their marriage.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Scandinavian Airlines System will, along with a number of major international airlines, take part in the United Nations' current drive to help the refugees of the world.

Rome And The American Labor Union

By Rev. John E. Coogan, S.J.

QUESTION: It would surely be difficult to question the wisdom of Pope Leo's urging that workers be prudent and spiritually minded in their choice of union membership. And it would be equally difficult to see why they should not have such a choice of membership. Is there, though, any other notable papal document that you would cite as supporting the right to work principle?

The most notable declaration bearing on compulsory unionism in recent years is the 1960 letter communicated to Semarine Sociale, Grenoble, France, by Cardinal Tardini, papal Secretary of State, for John XXIII. The letter had to do with excessive socialization, threatening dehumanization. "Modern man," the Pope says, "sees that the sphere in which he can think for himself, act on his own initiative, exercise his responsibilities, and affirm and enrich his personality is in many cases restricted to an excessive degree." The Holy Father agrees that trade unions can be helpful, but the unions he has in mind he describes as "forms of free and spontaneous associations, well ordered and oriented." But membership even in these rare unions must be "offered to, not imposed upon the free choice of mankind." That of course is a statement of the right to work principle: that union membership be offered to, not imposed upon the free choice of mankind. If the individual is to choose union membership, Pope John continues, let it be "the result of a free and justified choice of careful thought about himself, his destiny and that of the world."

Some clerical champions of compulsory unionism have insisted the Holy Father was there condemning compulsory membership only in socialistic European unions, although he spoke no word of such limitation. In fact, the unions he referred to he called potentially good and helpful; that description he would not have given a socialist union. But the futility of all such evasions of the papal document was proclaimed a few months later by the some 220 archbishops and bishops of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in their 1960 annual statement, on Personal Responsibility. Those bishops accepted the Semaine Sociale letter as fully pertinent to the American situation and very important.

The clerics who had denied the pertinence of the Semaine Social letter to America had made the same denial about the pertinence of America of the Christmas Message of Pius XII in 1952, condemning union domination. There the Holy Father complained that "access to employment or to places of labor is made to depend upon registration in certain parties or in certain organizations which trace their origin to the labor market. Such discriminations are indicative of a wrong concept of the proper function of labor unions and of their essential purpose, which is the protection of the interests of the wage earner within modern society, which has become more and more anonymous and collectivist." That that Message was not meant only for socialist Europe but also for America was made manifest by its specific reference to the "free world," and through its application to the Canadian international unions -- our own American unions -- by Pope John in his 1960 letter to the Canadian Social Week.

A long-playing record, "International Piano Festival," on which six of the world's outstanding pianists have recorded works by their favorite composers, will be sold on board SAS planes in international traffic, beginning in early November.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. J. Millard Tawes will lead a five-man delegation of Marylanders on a visit this month to the state of Rio de Janeiro in Brazil, Maryland's sister state in the Partners of the Alliance program. The group will leave the United States Nov. 14.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — About 4,000 Jamaican farm workers are to be flown to Florida to help harvest the sugar crop by Nov. 29, a spokesman for the Labor Ministry says.

STRABANE, Northern Ireland (AP) — The city of Strabane has unveiled a plaque marking the home of John Dunlap, who first printed the U.S. Declaration of Independence.

Tangerines, Turkeys, Yams Go Into Stores

Tangerines and turkeys are moving into the nation's grocery stores, along with cranberries and yams, in increasing numbers as the holidays approach.

The Florida tangerine crop is smaller than last year's, but there are imports from Mexico to take up the slack. There are plenty of oranges, grapefruit and tangelos, but the line crop was cut by hurricane damage.

Shoppers may look for some good buys in canned and frozen vegetables in the months ahead, with big crops of cabbage, lima beans, snap beans, sweep corn and peas for processing.

The tomato harvest, however, is down from last year, with the California crop off 21 per cent.

Cucumber prices are down, and peppers and parsley are plentiful. Fresh eggplant, squash and bean prices are higher in some areas.

Turkey, broilers, fryers, veal, ground beef, roasts, steaks and liver are in good supply, along with pork chops, roast and ham and lamb chops and roasts.

Chevalier Ageless at 76

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When I was 75, I thought that would be the end of my career. But then I became 76 and the offers still kept coming in and I was still performing at the height of my powers. So I just kept on going."

Now Maurice Chevalier is 78 and going stronger than ever.

At least he advertises himself as 78, calculating his age in the European manner. He considers himself in his 78th year, since he was born in 1888.

Whatever his age, Chevalier remains one of the marvels of the Western world. No one is more aware of the fact than Chevalier.

Career is the one great passion of his life, and he speaks of it with eloquence. He reported the triumphs of his 75th year — a stand at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, runs in Chicago, Washington, South America, London, ending with appearances in his beloved Paris.

"And I did it the hard way — just one man and a piano," said Chevalier. "No one else has been able to do that, certainly not at such an advanced age. Harry Lauder couldn't. Al Jolson finished when he was 45. Later he was a sensation again, but with someone else's face and body. That wasn't quite as good as Jolson."

Feeling no diminution of his power, as a draw and as a human machine, Chevalier told himself: "Dammit, why should I quit?"

He didn't. He continues at a merry clip, taking his one-man show to far-off places, lending his charm to television--a tribute to Cole Porter coming up at Thanksgiving — and to films. He is now at Walt Disney's fun factory for the first time, portraying a priest in "Monkeys Go Home" with Dean Jones and Yvette Mimieux.

The hair is silver-gray, but Chevalier's face is as pink as a baby's and there is a lightness in his step. His regimen is that of a fighter, which is what he was, early in the game.

When will the Chevalier legend end?

"Now I am planning a grand tour for my 80th year on the same scale as when I was 75," he said.

No Locks

Because there is no great difference between the levels of the Red Sea and the Mediterranean Sea, which it connects, there are no locks on the Suez Canal.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Father John LaFarge, a great man with great talents, worked all of his life in the area of social problems. He founded or helped found the Catholic Association for International Peace, the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, the Liturgical Arts Society and St. Ansgar's League for Scandinavians, but gave most of his long life to the cause of justice and equality for the American Negro. In 1934 he founded the Catholic International Conference of New York. From this beginning grew the present network of 120 councils coast to coast, with national headquarters in Chicago.

Still going strong in his 83rd year, Father LaFarge, elder statesman of the religious work for Negroes in the United States, helped achieve the historic 1963 Interfaith Conference on Religion and Race held in Chicago. That conference put America's religious leaderships behind the Negroes' cause. He died two years ago, after a life of dedication to international peace and racial and religious tolerance.

667,567 Visit West Side Of Berlin

BERLIN (AP) Officials say 1,667,567 East German pensioners visited West Germany and West Berlin between Nov. 1, 1964, and Sept. 30 this year. They said only a fraction of a per cent of the visitors failed to return to their Communist homeland. The East German regime permitted the pensioners' visits.

IRVINE, Ky. (AP) There are no classes at the Granny Richardson School— but there is an oil well. Classes ended at the one-room school early in 1964. But the property has continued to pump money into the Estill County school system because of an oil well on the property.

Supt. Douglas Miller said the well, dug in the 1920s, provides more money than would be derived from selling the property.

BOSTON (AP) —Massachusetts operates the only highway traffic light on Interstate 95 from Bangor, Maine, to Virginia.

The one traffic light had to be installed after completion of an interchange to get northbound travelers over into parts of Peabody west of U.S. 1. Once the traveler hits Massachusetts 128, he can drive to the Massachusetts Turnpike entrance at Weston with a clear way south to Petersburg, Va.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) —The Irish Republic has placed an immediate import levy of 10 to 15 per cent on many classes of consumer goods, including automobiles and radio and television sets.

A government announcement said the levy was necessary to combat a balance of payments condition that has been worsening since 1964.

WASHINGTON (AP) —Army engineers will get $800,000 to start surveys and plans for a $227-million hydroelectric and flood control project on the upper St. John River in Maine.

The project would be the first federal hydroelectric project in New England.

'I Spy Offbeat Success'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the apparent hits of the new television season is an offbeat adventure series, "I Spy," which features a pair of on-the-beat stars, Robert Culp and Bill Cosby.

They combine well, Culp with his crisp but sensitive style, Cosby with a wise humor. Both are sturdily athletic, which comes in handy when required to race across scenery on Hong Kong and Japan locations.

Aside from the fact that "I Spy" seems to possess quality in a season grimly lacking in it, the notable feature of the series is that one of the costars is a Negro.

Bill Cosby views this fact with unconcern. He was skeptical when producer Sheldon Leonard suggested it a year ago. "When it happens, I'll believe it," he said.

It happened, and Cosby is now merely trying to do a job regardless of his race. That has been true throughout his fast-rising, three-year career. His comedy routines in night clubs, concerts and television have largely concerned the joys and sorrows of urban living.

On "I Spy" itself, race is neither stressed nor ignored.

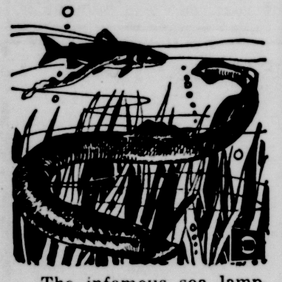
"There is little reference to race, except the kind of comment that one Italian might say about another Italian," Cosby explained. "We certainly don't do any racial jokes. There's no occasion for it between Bobbie and me. We consider each other as Kelly Robinson and Alexander Scott, not as a white man and a Negro."

Only three Deep South television stations refused to accept the Wednesday night NBC show, according to Cosby. "Apparently we had no problem getting sponsors," he added. "In fact, I understand they are now standing in line."

He considers the show an advance for Negro actors in general and himself in particular.

"The series has been a tremendous gain for my career," he said. "I'm losing money, compared to what I would be making as a comedian, but I will make it up next year. The important thing is that film producers are already thinking of me in terms of roles as a human being, and not merely as a servant or a runaway slave."

Matter of Fact



The infamous sea lamprey is an eel-shaped, parasitic, scaleless, bloodsucking fish which sometimes attains a length of three feet. During the early 1930s the sea lamprey found its way into the Great Lakes. Its first and principal victims were lake trout, which it almost succeeded in exterminating to the point of extinction until a government control program was directed against the pests.

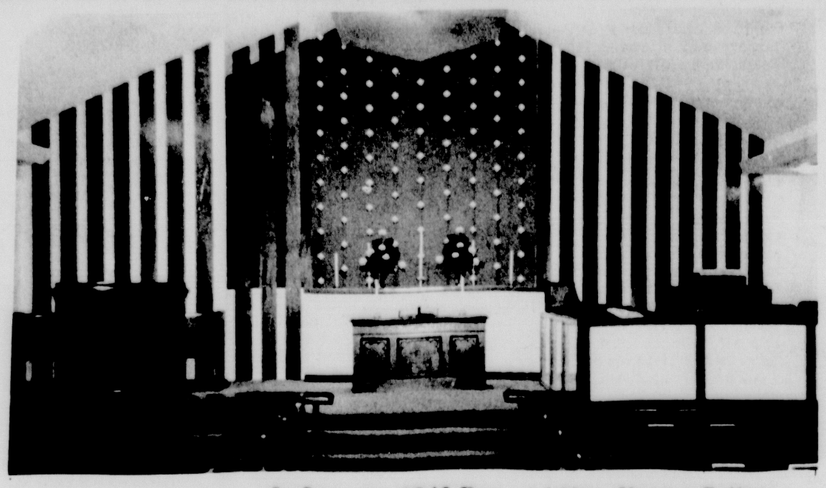
#2 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Saluting:

The Church Of God

Rev. Oral Withrow



A small group of Church of God people began prayer meetings and occasional services in 1938 in Sikeston. For over two years a small group worshiped in the home of their pastor, Rev. J. B. Brunk, on Matthews Street. Two tent revivals were held during this time--one on a lot behind the present Nailling Tractor Company building, and the other on the lot presently occupied by the McDougal Insurance Agency. Some of the persons who worshiped with this first group were Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keasler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thurmond, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Brunk, and Mrs. Laura Lathom.

In 1941 the O. C. Lewis family moved to Sikeston and the erection of the first unit of the present church sanctuary was completed under the leadership of Rev. Lewis. In May, 1941 the service of dedication was the first service in the new building and the small group of Christians began to grow as a congregation.

A Sunday School was organized that same month with thirty enrolled. Rev. Lewis served ably as the first pastor leading in a growth to sixty-five average attendance. In June, 1943 a full time pastor, Rev. H. McDonough, was called. During the ministry of Rev. McDonough the church grew to an average attendance above the one-hundred mark. During this period the church purchased the present pastorium at 228 Sikes.

In January, 1946 Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Guttenfelder accepted the charge of the local pastorate and led Tanner Street Church of God in one of its most fruitful eras of service. During the twelve years of leadership under the Guttenfelders the church increased its average attendance beyond the two hundred mark. Also a new Christian Education building was attached to the original structure in 1947, a recreational fellowship building was added in 1952, and in 1956 the sanctuary was enlarged to its present size by an addition of a side chapel. The Guttenfelders were greatly loved by the community; being very talented musicians, they were used widely in various types of programs. Through their efforts, principally, two choirs, an orchestra, and many small singing groups were organized.

Rev. E. D. Johnson served the church as pastor from 1957 to 1961. Among other accomplishments was the purchase of an organ for the church sanctuary.

The present minister, Rev. Oral Withrow, and his family moved to Sikeston in June, 1961 to assume the ministerial leadership of the Tanner Street Church. In 1964 the church completed a remodeling and construction program which doubled the size of the facilities for the Tanner Street Church.

The church echoes the theme of the radio broadcast it sponsors each week over KSIM at 8 a.m. on Sunday: "A United Church For a Divided World."

Today in U.S. History

Today is Friday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1965. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected to a third term.

In 1605, a conspiracy for blowing up the English Parliament was uncovered before it could succeed.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony, the crusader for women's votes, cast her ballot at Rochester, N. Y., and was later prosecuted for illegal voting.

In 1930, Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

In 1940, election returns were telecast for the first time.

In 1942, Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery announced that the British had won a complete and absolute victory in Egypt.

Ten years ago — France formally recognized Mohammed Ben Youssel as the sultan of Morocco.

Five years ago--John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon were winding up their campaigns for the presidency.

One year ago—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China arrived in Moscow to attend Russia's celebration of the 48th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Metal Stud Tires Illegal In 2 States

ST. LOUIS AP --Snow tires with metal studs, which are being widely advertised, are illegal in Illinois and Missouri, state officials said.

Francis S. Lorenz, Illinois public works director, said the uniform act regulating traffic on highways bars motor vehicles equipped with "any anti-skid or nonslip device so constructed that any rigid or nonflexible portion comes in contact with the pavement."

The Illinois attorney general has held the use of metal studded tires to be illegal.

A spokesman for the Missouri Highway Department said manufacturers and dealers have been warned that the tires violate a section of state law prohibiting the use of metal tires or lugs on improved highways.

Chains apparently do not come under the laws of the two states.

Officials said both laws were passed to avoid damage to highways by metal devices that might dig into the pavement.

Q—What is the name of the long stick an artist rests his hand on while painting?

A—Maulstick.

Q—What country is the world's greatest coffee grower?

A—Brazil.

A Friend "In Deed"

Jerry Lewis, national chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, gets a warm kiss from MDAA's 1965 poster child, Paul Carter Hawkins of Dillon, Montana. The famous comedian has helped to raise millions of dollars for research into the progressively crippling disease whose chief victims are young children like Paul. MDAA's annual fund raising drive, the March Against Muscular Dystrophy, is now under way in this community.

Is It Old Fashioned To Jump When A Customer Calls??

A lot of people think so. Is it old fashioned to say "Thank You" or be sincerely appreciated? ? Some say it is.

Well. . . do business with some old fashioned people. We are not old fashioned when it comes to up-dated ideas. We are not old fashioned when it comes to modern insurance coverages but we are as old fashioned as all get out when it comes to appreciating our customers.

You know something. . .We are going to keep it that way. Oh! We are going to buy new office machines. . .go to every school we can. . .spruce up our office, but we are going to stay old fashioned when it comes to dealing with you.

Our customers like us this way. You should do business with old fashioned people. They will enjoy doing business with you.

Running Horse Cafe Morehouse, Missouri

Straight From The Horse's Mouth

It's been too long since we have written a report on "The Running Horse Cafe." I had to take time out the latter part of March and have a heart attack. When I finally got back in the saddle, I found that we had a lot of irons in the fire, but none of them very hot. Now we're ready to throw a few cobbs on the fire and pick up where we left off.

Things have been going good. We have managed to keep the payments made, we have some real fine people working with us, and hope we can get "The Running Horse" operating just as smoothly as a newly oiled gate. To get rolling, we have a couple of new things coming up that we want you to know about. We have a new pressure chicken fryer that's a little dandy. It will cook chicken done to the bone in just 8 minutes -- takes us about 9 minutes - our chickens are larger -- and comes out a delicious golden brown and seasoned to a T. It's juicy right to the last bite. Now when you combine this kind of chicken -- we call it flavor-crisp -- with some potatoes, cole slaw, cracklin gravy, and hot rolls, you are living high on the chicken. Of course, you can buy this flavor-crisp chicken every day. But, to introduce this new chicken, we have rigged up a little special. Here's the deal. Every Monday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. we are going to have "Family Night". That means that we are going to serve you all the flavor-crisp chicken, potatoes, slaw, and home made hot rolls you can eat for just $1.00 per person. We will have plenty on the table, but if it's not enough just tell the waitress you need some more and it will be hustled right out. How's that for a deal? Why don't you bring the family over Monday night and see if we can deliver the goods.

We have a new menu that should be ready in a few days too. We think we have improved it. We have taken away the summer foods and added some winter dishes that we think you will like.

There are some other things we need to tell you about, but this thing is getting long winded. So - we will report again before long.

Thank you so much for your business, and don't forget that every Monday night is "Family Night". That means all the flavor-crisp chicken you can eat for just one buck per person.

Sincerely yours,
The Running Horse Cafe
Sherman Grant

Live Grenade Removed From Vietnamese Farmer

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Working through a small hole in a wall of sandbags, two U.S. surgeons successfully removed a live grenade from a Vietnamese farmer's back today.

"It's in the box," Maj. Gen. James W. Humphreys Jr. shouted as he released the grenade into a wooden case half filled with sand after pulling it from the back of frail, Nguyen Tran Chinh, 52.

The operation in a shed behind a Saigon hospital took less than four minutes.

Chinh became a walking explosive Sunday when a Viet Cong fired the 40mm grenade into his back. The missile 6 inches long and 2 inches wide lodged in his lower back beneath the 12th rib.

Humphreys, a chest surgeon from Richmond, Va., was assisted by another chest surgeon, Air Force Col. Daniel Campbell of Inlet Beach, Fla., a British anesthetist, Dr. Tony Brown, gave Chinh a local anesthetic. Brown is attached to the U.S. aid mission.

The doctors, who volunteered for the job, operated from behind a 10-foot-high stack of sandbags. They were about four feet away from the patient.

Inserting their instruments through an opening below a large pane of bulletproof glass, they made an incision with a scalpel attached to a 6-foot-long steel arm.

Then Humphreys picked out the grenade with a 6-foot-pair of tweezers and placed it gently in the box of sand. It was about 2 feet from the wound to the box.

"If I had dropped it, the whole show would have been over," Humphreys said.

A U.S. Army demolition expert, Maj. Daniel Doty of Marina, Calif., carried the box to a sandbagged jeep. It was to be detonated outside Saigon.

The grenade can kill at five yards and cause serious injury far beyond that distance.

De Gaulle Announcement Will Produce Crisis For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles de Gaulle's announcement that he will stand for re-election as president of France is regarded by U.S. officials as assuring a severe crisis in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

These officials believe a major foreign policy objective of De Gaulle in a new term as president would be to reduce progressively U.S. military and political influence in Europe.

They expect him to attempt this primarily through a radical recasting of the alliance. The belief here is that he probably would focus first on French proposals for reorganizing the NATO military structure in such a way as to do away with the integration of Allied forces under a top American commander.

U.S. strategy and tactics for dealing with De Gaulle's anticipated move are still undetermined. Conferences on this country's European policy are under way. In general, the dominant view of administration officials is that if worst came to worst the United States would work with other European allies to maintain a military system within the alliance and without France, if necessary.

De Gaulle told a news conference Sept. 9 that so far as France is concerned integration will have to come to an end by 1969 at the latest.

In official Washington's view, De Gaulle, if elected as expected, would pursue the following major foreign policy objectives, practically all of which run counter to long-established U.S. purposes:

1. Rearrangement of French international commitments to give the French government full freedom of action. It is believed here this means reducing the Atlantic Alliance to the status of a traditional Allied relationship in which countries promise aid to each other in event of war but do not coordinate forces or strategies beforehand.

2. Whittling down American influence in Europe while increasing French influence. In this connection De Gaulle is considered to regard France's independent nuclear force, which soon will be operational, as evidence of France's status as a first-class power in the world and the only such power on the Continent west of Russia.

3. Denial to Britain of an effective role in continental politics. Several years ago De Gaulle blocked Britain's U.S.-supported bid for membership in the European Common Market and made clear that if Britain ever joined in the future it would have to be pretty much on French terms.

4. Denial to West Germany of any participation in any kind of NATO nuclear force, such as the United States has urged on the European Allies for several years.

5. Formation of closer ties with the Soviet Union wherever Moscow and Paris can discover common interests as a basis for cooperation. De Gaulle has spoken in the past of a European system of nations stretching from the Atlantic to the Ural Mountains.

18 Apartment Units To Be Built In Acres

Sale of land in the Hunter Acres Addition west of Davis Boulevard will permit construction of 18 modern apartment units.

R. D. Clayton today announced completion of the arrangements for the sale.

The air conditioned apartment units will be built of brick veneer, have hot water heat, plaster walls, ceramic tile baths, and wall to wall carpeting.

The property has been acquired by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Price of Cape Girardeau.

Clayton says that the units will be constructed by E. G. Gatley, formerly of Oran, who has built many homes in Sikeston. Gatley is associated with Price in the Southeast Missouri Lumber Company in Cape Girardeau.

Alcoa Raises Metal Prices

NEW YORK AP — Aluminum Co. of America, the nation's No. 1 domestic aluminum producer, today boosted prices. The action came despite what has been interpreted as opposition from President Johnson's administration.

Alcoa raised the price of basic ingots a half-cent a pound to 25 cents and the price of fabricated metal by an average of a cent a pound.

Alcoa's price move follows a week of controversy between the Johnson administration and the aluminum industry which began when Olin Mathieson Corp raised prices last week.

Crash Critically Injures Woman

Jewell Botkin, 38, Poplar Bluff, was critically injured yesterday at 1:20 p.m., when her car crashed off highway 60 three and one-half miles east of Poplar Bluff.

She lost control of her 1963 Ford convertible. The car ran into a ditch, 350 feet through a woods, tearing down signs along the way. It stopped against a tree.

She was taken to a Poplar Bluff hospital with a broken arm, multiple breaks in her legs, and a possible fractured back, cuts and bruises.

A half mile south of New Madrid on highway 61, Thursday at 8 a.m. Guy DeLisle, 67, Portageville, lost control of his 1965 Buick, ran into a ditch and turned over.

A school bus, driven by Lewis Henry, 58, Wardell, was stopped on a highway, two miles south of Portageville Thursday at 7:30 a.m., when a 1962 Ford, driven by Frank Welch, 43, Topeka, Kas., slid into the bus on wet pavement.

Nine Killed In Explosion

TRIPOLI, Libya AP — Nine men including three Americans have been killed and a fourth American is missing in a big pipeline explosion at the Oasis Oil Co.'s Samah field, the Libyan government announced today.

The other dead were a Briton, a Lebanese and four Libyans. Two men were seriously injured, the announcement said, but their nationalities were not given.

The explosion destroyed the pipeline and halted production temporarily from three fields in the area southeast of the Gulf of Sirte, but the statement said production would be resumed to a few days.

Halloween Prankster Beaten

CHARLESTON -- An assault charge has been filed in magistrate court against John F. Rolwing of Wyatt, following an alleged beating Saturday night at the Rolwing home caused by a Halloween prank.

According to officers who listened to the complaint of one of the neighbors, three girls Carol Lessler, Carolyn May and Cherie Brown were soaping a window at the Rolwing home. Rolwing appeared, and demanded that the girls clean the windows. The girls refused.

The petition charges that Rolwing "assaulted, beat and wounded Carolyn May by striking her with his hands and fists."

Rolwing's case was continued, and his trial set for November 18 at 10 a.m.

Other magistrate court action Thursday:

Odus Douglas Fitzgerald, charged with defective brakes was fined $5 and $11 costs.

Theodore Gillespie, charged with failure to obey a reasonable request not to cross newly painted yellow lines was fined $1 and $11 costs.

John Evans, charged with disturbing peace was fined $10 and $16.50 costs.

Bill Gammons charged with non-support had his case dismissed.

Mark Ford, charged with driving while intoxicated was fined $100 and $14 costs.

Billy Vaughn, charged with public intoxication was fined $25 and $14 costs.

John Edward McGugin, charged with careless and reckless driving while drinking, was fined $25 and $11 costs.

Danny Allen Presson, charged with having inadequate brakes was fined $5 and $11 costs.

William Earl Carter, charged with improper registration was fined $10 and $14.50 costs.

Lonnie Merle Adkison, charged with careless and reckless driving was fined $15 and $11 costs.

Charles Luter Howton, charged with failure to obey a reasonable request not to cross newly painted yellow lines was fined $1 and $11 costs.

Jobless Rate Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dipped to an eight-year low of 4.3 per cent in October, but you'd almost think the Labor Department was trying to hide the good news.

Usually trumped at the start of the monthly job report—and sometimes even announced from the White House — the favorable figure was buried Thursday in the midst of a mass of other facts and figures.

Actually, the government is launching a major effort to switch the nation's attention on its oft-criticized unemployment figures from percentages to people.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, under new management, emphasized instead that the number of jobless men, woman and teen-agers totaled 2.8 million. It also reported total employment at an all-time October high of 73.2 million.

Zip Code Important For Christmas Mail Dispatch

Charles Schwidde, Farmington, postal service officer for Southeast Missouri, outlined last night Christmas mail handling procedures.

He told 53 representatives of Bootheel post offices at the Holiday Inn that they cannot stress enough the importance of the zip code.

He said that it is expected soon that all first class mail, except local, will be flown. "This," he said, "will give us more one day service. About two-thirds of the state of Missouri now has one day service."

Courtesy and safety to the public were also stressed. He instructed postal representatives to place mats at the doors of their buildings for the people.

Post offices in the area will be open Dec. 12, a Sunday, for the public to aid in the Christmas mail rush.

He explained that the zip code had been instituted primarily because of variations in mailing dispatch.

Changes caused with the abandonment of railways and the use of highways to carry mail played an important role in the development of the zip code, he explained.

E. R. JARVIS, president, Jarvis and Conn Motor and Equipment Co., has been re-elected to serve a two year term for the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

WALKING TO their preliminary hearings handcuffed are, from center left, Lonnie Garrett, Sam Irby and Billie Joe Garrett, all of East Prairie. On their trail up the steps of the New Madrid court house are Paul Haubold and Flip Dees, deputy sheriffs. The three are charged with felonious assault, armed robbery and kidnaping in the Oct. 22 roadside shooting and beating of R. L. Richards, Matthews route two. They were bound over to circuit court and $25,000 bonds were set for each at a preliminary hearing in magistrate court.

Scott County Retail Business Outlets Decline, Sales Gain

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Scott County has 380 retail businesses, which sell $36,161,000 worth of goods a year, a census of business discloses.

These businesses provide employment for 1,138 a year, and have payrolls of $3,205,000. Under the law the census of business must be taken every five years.

The previous census showed that the county had 415 business units, but sales were only $29,716,000.

County businesses have increased the sales by more than $6,000,000 within the five years.

Business places were divided into groups by the survey, to make the information available to the public.

It was found that the county has 31 stores selling lumber, building materials, hardware and farm equipment. These sell just under $7,000,000 worth of goods a year. The group also includes plumbing and electrical equipment stores.

Fifteen stores of the general merchandise class were found. These included variety stores as well as department, and merchandise stores. The 15 stores sell $1,426,000 worth of goods a year.

Stores with the greatest amount of sales and the largest numbers of outlets were the food stores. The county has 76 such stores, 32 of which are in Sikeston. These stores sell more than $7,592,000 worth of groceries a year.

The 21 automotive stores which sell automobiles, parts, accessories, have the second highest sales of any group. Their sales are $6,236,000 a year.

There are 41 gasoline and service stations. These sell $3,179,000 worth of goods.

Put together the automotive stores sales and the gasoline store sales and the spending for transportation is higher than for food.

The county has 19 stores, which sell men and boys, women and girls clothing, accessories, and such other items as shoes. These 19 stores have sales of more than $2,000,000 a year.

The group of stores which sell furniture, home furnishings, equipment, and other appliances and conveniences sell $1,763,000 worth of goods a year. There are 17 such stores in Scott County. Thirteen are located in Sikeston.

The county has 69 eating and drinking places, with the eating places being a majority. These businesses sell about $1,912,000 worth of goods a year.

There are 14 drug stores, with nine in Sikeston. These businesses sell more than $1,000,000 worth of goods a year. The survey disclosed there are 58 stores which do not fit into the groups listed above. These include liquor stores, antique stores, and others. These stores sold $2,853,000 in goods a year.

There are nine nonstore companies. These sell more than $600,000 in goods a year.

Lions View Air Force Film

The Lions club at its noon luncheon meeting Wednesday viewed an Air Force Film, "Tall Man Five by Five," showing practice and heavy bombardment procedures used by the Air Force.

Capt. Jerry Graeber, commander of radar bomb scoring express number three, was guest. His squadron is having practice missions in Southeast Missouri.

With Graeber was Sgt. Joe Pansing of the same detachment.

Six Emergencies

Six emergency cases were brought to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in the past two days.

Dale Ham, injured right foot; Pearl Friend, Oran, fell, cutting forehead; Eddie Holland, injured left thumb; Cheryl Ann Baker, Guadaljara, Mexico; fell cutting chin; Carmel M. Day, Matthews, injured left forearm; Eugene Garner, Bell City, cut left hand.

RECALLING AN ANCIENT PLOT

Guy Fawkes, a conspirator of long ago, is ceremonially burned in effigy throughout the United Kingdom every year on Nov. 5. A soldier who had been serving in Flanders, Fawkes was arrested as he entered a cellar under the House of Lords on that day in 1605.

With a group of other English Catholics, including Thomas Percy, who had hired the cellar where 36 barrels of powder were secretly stored, Fawkes was accused of attempting to blow up the British houses of Parliament and King James I on the day set for the king to open Parliament. The plot was the work of a small number of men, but it damaged all English Catholics and led to an unfortunate increase in the harshness of laws against them.

After more than three and a half centuries, Guy Fawkes Day is not a very solemn observance, and it's in no sense a legal holiday. Otherwise it's a kind of combination of the U.S. Fourth of July and Halloween and the French Bastille Day.

Fawkes himself was described by a contemporary as a "man of great piety, of exemplary temperance, of mild and cheerful demeanor, an enemy of broils and disputes, a faithful friend and remarkable for his punctual attendance upon religious observances." Ironically, today the day which is named for him is a time for fireworks and parties, a time--save the mark--for the very "broils and disputes" which were anathema to the sober Guy.

Some years ago, for example, the celebration got out of hand, and three persons were killed and scores of children and some adults were treated for burns, contusions, and shock. London's fire brigade answered more than 500 calls and in other cities firemen were busy until after midnight. Screen star Diana Dors suffered a seven-inch gash on a leg jumping out of a flaming house.

Last year Scotland Yard reported arrests of more than 100 firecracker addicts and others by midnight. Our usually staid British cousins would appear ripe for a Safe and Sane Fawkes movement.

The nation breathed a sigh of relief when Congress adjourned.

People in most sections of the nation, immersed in their own concerns, gave only fleeting and indifferent attention to the Congress' failure to pass a home rule bill for the District of Columbia.

It's unfortunate that the people are so self centered and preoccupied. The District of Columbia needs home rule. The district should have it.

President Lyndon B. Johnson was correct in making this a major administration effort. His string of legislative triumphs should have included it. The people should give this proposal vigorous support in the next session of Congress.

Washington D. C., is the poorest governed city in the world. Its people have been disenfranchised and they have no place to go to voice a complaint or to change undesirable conditions. They have no place to go, that is, unless they want to pursue the almost fruitless labyrinth of Congressional committees--a spider web of bureaucracy--to try to find out precisely who has responsibility and figure out a way to direct a complaint at the specific group of bureaucrats having authority to act.

The power to direct the activities, if they can be called that, of Washington, D. C., should be taken away from Congress for its own good.

The district reflects badly on Congress, whose only interest in the capital is in making it presentable to tourists and constituents. Foreigners, who judge the United States by the horrible manner in which the district is governed, must think that the nation is completely uncivilized and horribly governed. Washington has a history of muggings and violent crime that makes Chicago and other sin centers pale into insignificance.

The district's government is bad because nobody in charge of its government is interested in its problems from the standpoint of those who live there. The district is isolated and detached from the rest of the country and governed badly by men and women who don't live there and can't share the viewpoint of those who do.

The example certainly should cure the rest of the country from the temptation to look to Washington for the solution of all their local problems. Washington solves none of its own problems.

Washington should be a showpiece in self government instead of a mere bauble, whose monuments and public buildings gleam in the sunlight and whose broad, shaded boulevards and cherry blossoms attract the tourists.

If the rest of the country patterned after it, this country would fall to organized crime and inability to govern itself.

People in the hinterlands should not be indifferent to this challenge. They should demand that Congress act to give the people the same chance to govern themselves that they have.

FALLACY

"Right To Work laws violate 'freedom of contract.' They represent harmful interference by government in the collective bargaining process. Union membership as a basis of continued employment should be neither required by law nor forbidden by law. The question should be resolved by the collective bargaining process."

A careful reading of the returns from Tuesday's election will demonstrate that President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society is not universally popular. It also shows that the people are not in the rubber stamp mood of Congress in all but the final days of the recent session.

While it is true that the results did not drench Johnson in cold water he is bound to have felt the effect of a chilly drizzle here and there.

While the President gave Alderman Abraham D. Beame only last minute, token support in the New York City mayoralty race, the endorsement was not enough. John V. Lindsay won the three-cornered race, which proved once more that the right-wing conservative cause is not a popular one with the people. William Buckley, the third man, finished far behind the other two.

Lindsay is a Republican but he soft pedaled the label in the campaign. He is not a typical Republican but a liberal one. It should be mentioned that he also was endorsed by the Liberal party, which is an important vote factor in New York City.

The race was of national significance. It gives the G.O.P. a new presidential personality. In New York City Lindsay will become the city's first G.O.P. mayor since Fiorella La Guardia 20 years ago.

Elsewhere some of the luster was rubbed off the Johnson success saga. What Johnson wanted he didn't get--at least not all.

In Texas, Gov. John B. Connally failed in a campaign to induce voters to stretch the terms of the governor and other state officials from two to four years. Presumably President Johnson voted for this proposal of his friend and associate. It was defeated.

Republicans won numerous local victories--retaining control of Louisville's city hall as one example.

But Republicans took their lumps, too. Strong endorsement by G.O.P. leaders failed to win the New Jersey and Virginia governorships for Republican candidates. In Virginia a third party conversative candidate with John Birch Society endorsement cut down on the available G.O.P. vote.

There was no such easy alibi for the G.O.P. in New Jersey. The result gives the state the first Democratic governor and Democratic controlled legislature in a half century--since the days of the late Woodrow Wilson, who was sent from New Jersey to the presidency.

All in all comfort can be taken in the fact that Tuesday was not a day for conformity or as a matter of fact not even for government by concensus.

BARGAIN ISOTOPES

The government is having a gigantic going-out-of-business sale. Prices are slashed to rock bottom and everything must go.

You needn't form a line, however, unless you happen to have a use for items like Strontium-90, Promethium-147, Cerium-144 or Cesium-137. These are all radioactive isotopes, by-products of the fission process in nuclear reactors.

The Atomic Energy Commission has announced sharp price cuts on all of them. Promethium - 147, for instance, formerly costing $5 a curie (a measure of radioactivity), will now go for 50 cents a curie, and as low as 20 cents a curie if ordered in large quantities.

Strontium-90 has been reduced from $2 to 50 cents a curie. A totally unwanted by-product when it is let loose in the atmosphere by a nuclear explosion, when properly packaged this material, like the others, has a research and industrial value.

Among other things, radioisotopes provide electric power for small installations such as arctic weather stations and sea buoys, are used in industrial thickness gauges, for the treatment of certain eye disorders and for various medical and industrial research purposes. You can't make a bomb out of them.

The AEC is cutting the prices in order to stimulate greater utilization of the isotopes and build a market, at home and abroad, for the proposed Fission Products Conversion and Encapsulation Plant to be built on the AEC site at Richland, Wash.

The FPCE will be a privately financed and run facility and will begin producing the isotopes commercially on a large scale in 1968, enabling the AEC to get out of this end of the atom business entirely.

SINCEREST FORM OF COMPLIMENT

This country's exports have an almost infinite variety. And more is sent abroad than products. Ideas and institutions of American origin make their way there too. Is this, as in so many other matters, it can be said that imitation is the sincerest form of compliment.

The supermarket seems to have been one of our most popular exports.

Writing in This Week magazine, Charlie Rice says: "Bonjour, Monsieur. Today I desire a can of kitty-food, a bottle of Napoleon brandy, two bunches of garlic, an electric tooth-brush, a slice of pate de foie gras, a pair of overalls, a half-ounce of perfume, a saddle of mountain goat, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, a ton of coal, six chocolate eclairs, a pair of rollerskates and a small octopus.' This could be a French housewife's order when she goes shopping. . . ."

The French, in other words, have taken to the supermarket idea with limitless enthusiasm. So, to varying extents, have the people of other advanced countries. This marks a far cry from the age when the housewife had to visit a long series of small, intensely specialized shops, in order to complete her list. By American standards, mass-distribution has been a late-comer to Europe, but it is there, thanks to our example.

Indeed, Mr. Rice writes that the French, if we're not careful, will " . . . out-super us Americans in 1966." It's possible, perhaps -- we have no monopoly on energy and innovation and ambition. But it is certainly not likely. American retailing, in all its branches, is unexcelled in efficiency, economy and good service. The odds are long that this will continue.

H. L. Hunt Says

A QUESTION OF STRATEGY

Always unresolved in the realm of military strategy is the question of whether a strategy should be devised around the armed forces available, or whether the forces should be designed to suit desired strategy.

This argument is no more resolved than the age-old question, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?" Up to now, those concerned with national defense have taken one side or the other of this question; but the present Pentagon regime ignores it altogether.

Defense Secretary McNamara has proceeded in opposite directions with his strategy and his military establishment. Defense Department budget proposals have called for missiles to replace bomber and fighter aircraft. But the strategy has been directed toward small wars in which missiles are prohibited, and aircraft are our only means of gaining and maintaining advantage and superiority over an enemy.

Three years ago the Secretary stopped production of the supersonic B-58 bomber after only a few had been built. Phase-out of our B-47s is scheduled to be completed within the current fiscal year, after which we will have only about 600 B-52s on alert, some nearing 10 years of age.

We had some 1500 bombers when the present Secretary came into office. His plans call for reducing this number to 150. which is no real force, by 1970. 1970 is fast approaching, and the U. S. is involved in a war Administration experts say may last several years. B-52s are being used for our heavy strike force in Vietnam, but most are programmed for the scrappile, possibly before the Vietnam war can be brought to a conclusion.

The U. S. has built a missile force designed for total, global conflict, but we have disavowed such a war in our strategic doctrine. Pentagon experts prefer to confront Communism with conventional weapons in every "war of liberation" the Communists start anywhere on the globe. Asia's teeming millions are fodder for the Communist war machine. Airpower is our only means of superiority over such numbers. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) —It isn't the things you've done in life that keep you happy—it's the things you still may do.

Achievement often tends to make you smug. It is the beckoning adventure of the unachieved that makes existence interesting and exciting.

It is good for the soul now and then to sit down and make a list of such possibilities, whether you ever really do anything about them or not. No matter how many things you've done, there are more that you haven't.

For example, I know a fellow —my wife is still married to him—who has never—

Stunned an octopus with a karate blow.

Eaten beef stew off a gold plate.

Flown in a glider or a space capsule

Saved a lost and half-frozen St.Bernard dog by offering it a drink from a small keg of brandy.

Worn a raccoon coat, a pair of spats, or a duck-tailed haircut.

Been a landlord or a loan shark.

Robbed the rich in order to give to the poor.

Raised chickens or chinchillas for profit.

Beat up any neighborhood bullies as the result of taking correspondence courses in muscle building.

Had a sandwich or a ball park named in my honor.

Been in charge of wardrobes for a burlesque theater.

Looked at the world through trifocal glasses.

Held a flashlight for Dr. Kildare while he performed an emergency appendectomy aboard a destroyer during a typhoon.

Hypnotized an angry cobra by blowing a soothing solo on my old Boy Scout bugle.

Subbed for an ailing high wire artist at the circus.

Won a game of hopscotch from my daughter.

Received the French Croix de Guerre and two kisses on the cheek—from Charles de Gaulle.

Showed LBJ how to rope and tie an unruly steer or politician.

Trailed a mermaid across the Sahara Desert.

Been called "Bwana" by a New York traffic policeman.

Gee, when a fellow looks back on all the things he hasn't done, his life seems kind of empty, doesn't it? But if he's ever going to do them, he can't start sooner than now.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Revelation that Mrs. Roosevelt's phone was tapped during the war by army intelligence will not surprise those familiar with the eavesdropping activities of the Army, Navy and every other intelligence agency at that time --except the FBI.

Inside reason why Mrs. Roosevelt's wires were tapped was because she insisted on maintaining contacts with liberal friends and labor leaders. By no stretch of the imagination could they be considered either Nazis or Communists. But in the opinion of those operating the intelligence agencies, they were suspect anyway.

During World War II, Naval intelligence once stationed two cars of agents outside my house. I have forgotten why. When Congressman James McGranery of Philadelphia, later attorney general, heard about it from one of my neighbors, he phoned Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. Neither Knox nor I knew about the Navy's spying, and he promptly had the agents removed.

If Sen. Ed Long, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate committee investigating eavesdropping, is worried about current Internal Revenue wiretapping, he should review what happened during the war.

The OSS, predecessor of CIA, tapped wires at the drop of a telephone. Army and Navy intelligence couldn't sleep at night unless they had half a hundred rooms wired for sound. Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, once got a recording of a military session at which the brass hats planned to take over U.S. industrial production. Don used the recording to show President Roosevelt what Gen. B. B. Somervell and the military were up to and FDR put them in their place.

Even good old Harold Ickes once bugged the room of his associate on the Public Works Board, Chip Robert, when Chip and Marvin McIntyre were entertaining ladies in an Atlanta hotel.

J. Edgar Hoover's FBI did very little wiretapping in those days; only when authorized by a federal court or the attorney general. But every other intelligence agency had a field day.

ELECTRONIC REFINEMENTS

Today, wiretapping has become much easier, due to electronic refinements. It's now possible to listen in on telephone conversations without putting an actual tap on the wire. And it's reported that a TV camera will soon be available by which detectives or law enforcement officers, or suspicious husbands, can peer into private rooms.

In recent years, also, there's been quite a rash of electronic eavesdropping by rival business firms. This column once revealed the charge by Hazel Bishop that her chief competitor, Revlon, has wiretapped conversations regarding the TV show, "$64,000 Question," which prompted Revlon to snatch the show away from Hazel Bishop.

In the Senate investigation over Internal Revenue wiretapping, Commissioner Sheldon Cohen deserves credit for issuing a strong circular instruction to all personnel June 19 that there was to be no illegal wiretapping even on underworld suspects. They, too, have their constitutional rights.

Though Commissioner Cohen admitted to Sen. Long that his agents had engaged in some illegal use of electronic devices, it should also be noted that some of these gadgets can be used quite legally.

For instance, when tax agents raid a bambling casino to collect Uncle Sam's share of the take, miniature transmitters are planted in front and in the rear of the casino in order to alert police if the operators try to crash out. This is not illegal.

Tax agents also explain that it was not illegal to use two-way mirrors in about twenty revenue offices. Furthermore, there was good reason for it--namely, to protect witnesses asked to identify dangerous criminals.

Attorney General Katzenbach recently testified that the Justice Department has "lost" 25 informants on underworld leaders, later found drowned wearing cement boots. So the two-way mirrors were used to spot unsuspecting gangsters.

Out of 900 Internal Revenue offices, 26 were bugged, tax agents explain, and these were in intelligence areas where people were suspected of fraud.

Bugging rooms and using two-way mirrors is not illegal. Nevertheless, following Sen. Long's investigation, all have been removed.

BOBBY KENNEDY DENIES

Sen. Bobby Kennedy, who as attorney general led a vigorous crime cleanup, has denied that he authorized the use of wiretaps or electronic devices, as outlined in an Internal Revenue memo recently published in this column.

"I never knew of, let alone approved or instructed, the use of the kind of equipment as being used by Internal Revenue," Kennedy said. "I think that, although mistakes were made, Internal Revenue has made a major contribution to the fight against organized crime, for which all of us should be grateful."

Note: Rep. Carlton Sickles, D-Md., believes the police should get as up-to-date as James Bond; should start using modern technology in fighting crime. The congressman doesn't want them to engage in illegal wiretapping, but does think that American police haven't caught up with the techniques of "Agent 007."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther Brothers Launch Labor's Jet Set To Span World, Internationalizing Unions.

Washington, D. C.: -- The brothers Reuther, who once bicycled across continents, now are launching a jet set for flights into some mighty spectacular horizons.

Their flying squads, made up of skilled organizers, sometimes will jet from labor crisis to labor crisis in the Occident and Orient. Or they will respond to aid calls from Asian unions. Or they will jet to lend a lobbying hand to allies in new African legislative halls.

Sometimes they will fly to "down under" continents to set up workers' education and vocational schools.

Someday they will spread across the globe to run a world-wide strike in the automotive or some other metal industry.

Labor's jet set has been a long time in the making. Call it the new global unionism. Call it the internationalizing of the labor movement. Whatever one does call it this new development will not sound as venturesome as do the following words of Victor Reuther:

"With the unprecedented resources of the free labor movement, in manpower, in experience, in leadership, in money, there can be no question that the new international structure will be built in time, that it will be effective and that it will inaugurate a dramatic new phase of labor union history."

Victor is director of the auto union's International Affairs Dept., and it should never be said that he lives in the shadow of brother Walter. First that shadow moves too swiftly. Second, Victor has been as active on an intercontinental front as his older brother has been on mainland U. S. A.

In recent months, Victor Reuther's department has helped Ford workers in a Venezuelan strike; aided G. M. auto workers at a long governmental board hearing in Australia; set up a brain center in Tokyo for global research; and created special councils in Geneva to cover each major auto corporation now producing cars and parts simultaneously on several continents.

It is Victor's theory that the international business and labor worlds now are so tightly knit that: ". . . Sneezes in Milan or Tokyo or Sao Paulo can produce influenza in Dagenham (Eng.), Detroit or Cologne."

It is the Reuthers' theory, therefore, that unionism should be global. For this, there must be organizers. Such men are now being trained so they can cooperate with such organizations as the West Germany's metalworkers, the world's largest union.

Thus, the labor jet set. Some 50 of them have been selected by the United Auto Workers (UAW). Some are UAW staff members. Some are local union leaders.

They are being grouped into contingents of 15 to 20 international trainees. They'll go into four weeks of residential training here in Washington and in Detroit. Their specialties will be international trade union, social and economic problems.

The study cycles will include stints at American University and Wayne State University.

The first trainee set has gone through courses here. They met on Oct. 18 and wound up Oct. 29. After briefings from labor's own international experts such as Victor Reuther and the continent - hopping Irving Brown, they made the rounds of embassies.

To go to all sides of the Curtain they were further briefed at the British, Nigerian, Swedish, Soviet, Yugoslav and Israeli embassies.

They are the first of what will become a special manpower pool. They will be ready to jet overseas on short notice. They are subject to call, says Reuther, for aid to foreign unions on "specific bargaining, vocational, educational, legislative, health, and union administrative problems."

For this globe-jetting program, there appears to be ample funds. Interest on the UAW war chest money is specifically allocated for world activity. Until last September, the fund had $70 million dollars. Then it dipped to $35 million. Now it is being replenished.

It will keep labor's jet squads flying for a long time.

Attendance Drive In Seventh Week

Special evangelistic services of the First Church of the Nazarene with Arthur and Margaret Gould concluded Sunday evening with several persons coming forward in the morning and more in the evening. One came seeking divine healing. The Church of the Nazarene believes in hospitals, doctors, nurses, and the use of all medical science. They also believe that a person may be divinely healed when it is in the will of the Lord.

Sunday will be the seventh in a series of ten Sundays in which the church is putting on a drive to increase its attendance. Sunday at 9:45 a.m. in the opening exercise, awards will be given for faithful attendance. At 7:00 p.m. there will be special music by the choir, organ, piano, Hawaiian and Spanish guitars, together with other special vocal numbers. All services during the week will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening service is at 7:00 p.m. The public is invited.

Church District Conference To Be At Morehouse

MOREHOUSE -- The district conference of the Assemblies of the Lord Jesus Christ will convene at the Morehouse First Pentecostal Church, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 11 and 12. The Rev. Harry Slattery of Muncie, Ind., will be the principle speaker. He will also be choir leader and is an organist. There will be seven or eight states represented and all the churches in this section, several speakers and special singing. The pastor, Rev. Nathaniel Lewis, extends a welcome.

Cut rolled cooky dough into squares, rectangles or diamonds with a knife instead of a cooky cutter to save time. A knife also may be used to cut biscuits into squares. It saves the rerolling of dough left over when the cutter is used.

The Modern Christian

What is Salvation-History?

In every age of man we see the coinage of new terms, and ours is no exception. The term "history" was taken on special connotations in our time. We speak of Salvation-History when we deal with the history that we find in the Bible. This type of history is preoccupied with the saving acts and saving plan of God.

It is highly interesting to note how the biblical writers deal with God. He is rarely dealt with in a purely speculative fashion. The God of the Bible is the God who acts, who makes heaven and earth and all things in them. He can do all things and show endless mercy to man.

The God so beautifully spoken of in the Bible is assuredly the God of history, and the great religions of Judaism and Christianity are historical religions. They are built on historical events.

Salvation-History has been built around pivotal events in both the Old Testament and New Testament. These events happened in man's daily activity.

It should be pointed out that for the Christian, Salvation-History is not confined to the Bible. It continues on after the Bible is completed. Salvation-History is continually being made, and especially in the life of each Christian and the world-wide Christian community.

Larry Corn Attends State Convention

JACKSON, Tenn. -- Larry Corn was one of 27 students from Union University who attended the state convention of the Baptist Student Union held last weekend in Cookeville, Tenn.

The meeting was held in the First Baptist Church with Tennessee Tech as the host school. More that 700 students from colleges in Tennessee attended the three-day conference.

The Baptist Student Union is a nationwide organization of Baptist students enrolled in colleges across the U. S. It serves as a link between the campus and the church, sponsors "join the church" movements and provides weekly religious activities on college campuses.

During the meeting, a $20,000 budget was adopted to support the summer missions program, a major project of the organization.

Last year, students at Union University collected more than $1,400 for the missionary project and the college was fourth in schools of the Southern Baptist Convention in the number of students who served as summer missionaries.

The convention will be held next year in the West Jackson Baptist Church at Jackson, October 28-30. Union University will be the host school.

During the past summer 17 students served in Hawaii, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Colorado, and Connecticut. Two of the volunteers were part of the group that built from the ground up a new church at Spencer, Tenn., in the Cumberland Mountains.

Wayne Johnson is director of the Baptist Student Union at Union University.

There's Magic in Black

by Helen Hennessy
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Black and white Op Art prints, white dresses with black stripes, white tops with black skirts and vice versa make the fall and winter designer collections look somewhat like checkerboards.

And this new trend is responsible for a complete turnabout in what's considered proper these days in the way of underpinnings.

For years we have been told that the well-dressed woman wears matching lingerie. Now it's smart to mix and match—a white panty and a black bra, half slip or girdle. It depends on what color looks better under which part of the dress.

Black by itself is also a fashion favorite this season from the slinky one-shoulder black crepe to the Mod smocked sheath and black lace stockings. And as a result lingerie firms are showing larger collections of black than they've shown in years.

One firm, in business for 65 years (Gossard-Artemus) believes the rise in popularity of black undergarments is due to the fact that young people as well as more mature women favor black dresses today.

The under-20 set chooses black as its favorite way to look pared down and plain, yet to play up a smashing figure. They wear the kissin' cousin of the leotard — a featherweight black spandex or tricot all-in-one that shadows the figure like a second skin. For the Mod stance is as intricate as a Dickens plot — a covered-up "poor boy" look that just happens to reveal a perfect figure, flawless skin and long, shining hair.

The over-20s, on the receiving end from Paris, will mix black and white to stay in the Mondrian picture. And they, naturally, will mix black and white lingerie as well.

With the return of the long dress, black again becomes a basic and lace its most romantic form. And a handsome black lace gown demands a filmy black slip and foundation.

It's even expected that black gowns and peignoirs will top the Christmas gift lists this year. For in keeping with the current ultra feminine fashions, black spells the emergence of the femme fatale.

Black is the magic word in lingerie and sleepwear this season, in keeping with the ultra feminine mood of current fashions. Peignoir and gown set, shown here, of nylon tricot has empire bodice of appliqued lace and velvet ribbon straps. Peignoir features a lace yoke and sleeves are outlined in scalloped appliqued lace. It is a Gossard-Artemus design.

Cover a cardboard box with attractive paper. Set in the middle of a table for a child's birthday party. Fill with gaily wrapped gifts, leaving a long string attached to each gift and hanging over the side of the box. Let each child pull a string and get a gift to take home.

Morehouse Nazarene Church Begins Revival Meeting

MOREHOUSE -- A revival meeting at the Church of the Nazarene began Wednesday night and will continue through Nov. 14. The evangelist is the Rev. T. A. Wilhelm of Matthews. Services begin each evening at 7:30 p.m.

The pastor, the Rev. R. M. Rudisill, extends a welcome.

CRABBY THIEVES

BIG PINE, Fla. (AP) — Thrilled at finding three large banded tulip shells, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds cleaned them and laid them near the channel's edge in the sun to remove remaining odors.

The next morning her prize shells were gone, but they had been replaced by three smaller tulip shells. She was furious and baffled with a thief that would make such a trade.

Spotting a large banded tulip moving in the water, she pulled it in and discovered it to be occupied by a hermit crab. The crab and two brother hermits had stolen her shells and left her their discarded homes.

Woman's Civic Club Meets 's

The Woman's Civic Club held its November meeting in the community room of the Security National Bank Tuesday with Mrs. Kermit Bird and Mrs. Harold Kiehne as co-hostesses.

A brief business session preceeded the program which was given by Elaine Dockins and Gary Williams, the club's representatives to Girls' State and Boys' State. In their interesting talks, both students emphasized the value of these experiences to attending students and expressed appeals for continuing sponsorship so that future representatives may benefit from attendance.

The meeting concluded with a white elephant auction among the members amusingly conducted by Mrs. Muriel Canedy, auctioneer.

Charleston Blue Jays Flog Cape Tigers

By Don Voelker

The Charleston Blue Jays whipped the Cape Central Tigers last night, 7-6. It was touch and go throughout the game and things were really looking bad for the Blue Jays until they scored late in the second quarter. Charleston's defense was the best it has been this year. The Jays knew what was at stake and they had to fight hard to win it. In the statistics department Central had more total rushing yardage than Charleston; they passed for more yards, and they had nearly twice as many first and tens. The Jays fought hard and won deserving victory.

Cape Central opened the scoring in the first quarter when their quarterback Mike Schutte went over onto pay dirt from the one yard line on a quarterback sneak. The Central Tigers gave Charleston a real rough time in the first half with number 40, Sylvester Johnson, knocking the Jays around like blue dominos but when the Jays did hit Johnson it was like a swarm of bees after a wounded Tiger and the Tiger Johnson was the boy that gave Sikeston a fit three weeks ago.

With 55 seconds left in the second quarter Reggie Young caught a pass from Terry Brashers and then stepped over the goal line. Brashers kicked the winning extra point.

In the third quarter the Blue Jays tried several up the middle plays but were stopped. They just couldn't break through the big Cape line. Cape Central took possession of the ball on their 28 yard line and marched on down to the Charleston Blue Jay's 22 yard stripe where they were stopped dead and with 20 seconds left in the third quarter Charleston took the ball on their 22 yard line. The Jays were running hard and hitting real hard and the yardage they made was slow and small. Central ran for long yardage but when they came near scoring the Jays toughened up and Central could not break through.

At the top of the fourth quarter Charleston was held between their 34 and 28 yard lines three minutes. The Jays were forced to kick but Johnson belted through the line and knocked the ball out of the air. Central took the ball on Charleston's 27 yard mark and Sylvester Johnson went loping down the field like a big antelope until he came to Skippy Leigh who threw his entire body at Johnson. Johnson was thrown into the air, turned a flip, and came crashing to the ground. The Charleston fans screamed and yelled for joy when Johnson took to the air; one man along the side lines said, "He ought to keep his feet on the ground, he doesn't fly nearly as well as he runs." Cape Central bulled their way down to Charleston's 15 yard line where they were held for three downs. They then went on down to the Jay's 10 yard line where they were held for two more downs and then tried for a field goal but missed by about two feet.

The game ended with the ball in possession of the Jays who were on the Central Tiger's 37 yard mark. The grand stands were filled with Charlestonians and when the last buzzer sounded they all ran out on the field to greet the team. The Charleston Blue Jays are now the top team in the Northern Conference. They have fought hard for their present position and well deserve it.

Schomehl Leads In Scoring

Tom Schomehl, Malden's fleet-footed halfback, continues to lead the district scorers and last week added one touchdown to run his total to 54 points.

Mike Whitehead, his teammate, is running second with 46 points. He scored three touchdowns and five extra points against East Prairie.

Bruce MacDonald, Dexter, and Ron Henning, Portageville, are tied for third place in the South Conference and the district with 36 points.

Robert Taylor scored a touchdown and extra point for Kennett and it put him in the North Conference lead with 34 points.

Robert Richardson, Charleston, scored a touchdown against Poplar Bluff and tied for second in the North Conference with Randy Taylor and Roger Oster, Perryville and Frank Powell, Charleston, with 30 points each.

Whitehead's five extra points gives him the lead in this department with 16. Ron Hamra, Portageville, has 13.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Don Voelker

The Sikeston Bulldogs have an open date tonight and this gives them a chance to rest up for their game with Blytheville next week. The Bulldogs are in good shape. Terry Scudder should be able to play next week and Kenny Cantrell will be back after being out with an injured ankle. There is a chance that Mike Garner may not be able to play next week. The Bulldog line is not up to par and the backfield is limping around licking their wounds. The Bulldogs were beaten by Cape Central two weeks ago and then by the Jackson Indians last week, the lowest scoring team in both conferences. If nothing else the Sikeston Bulldogs are making friends around the area. The Dogs have finished the Northern Conference schedule with a 5-2 record. They have scored 96 points this year and have allowed 51 to be scored against them. When Jackson beat them last week it wasn't an upset, the Indians went out on the football field with the call to whip Sikeston and they did, even if it was only the second time they have done so in the past 25 years. Sikeston's backfield is the weakest part of the team.

Sikeston's highest scoring player is Danny Lopp with 12 extra points and two touchdowns.

MALDEN AT POPLAR BLUFF

Tom Schomehl of Malden will lead the Green wave against the Poplar Bluff Mules tonight. Schomehl is the top scoring player in the district with a total of 54 points. Malden is the number one team in the Southern Conference with a conference record of 5-0.

It will be the Mules homecoming and that always makes it rough for the opponent. Bluff will have to put out all they have to stay up with the Mules. Malden 14-Poplar Bluff 7.

PORTAGEVILLE AT HAYTI

The Portageville Bulldogs are in good shape for their game tonight with Hayti. They had an open date last week and their boys have responded well to the rest. It has been five years since Portageville has beaten Hayti and once again this year Hayti is the favorite. The two teams usually clash on Thanksgiving but the games have been rescheduled this year.

Gordon Stout is Portageville's main lineman, making an average of nine to ten tackles per game. He is their stalwart on defense. Bruce Henning is outstanding in the backfield. He has a 6.0 average per carry which is excellent. The Bulldogs have been averaging between 275 and 375 yards gained per game. Henning is also their leading scorer with 36 points. They have scored 162 points and have allowed 60, and have a record of four wins and three losses. Portageville 14, Hayti 7.

PERRYVILLE AT JACKSON

The powerful Perryville Pirates will invade Jackson High School Stadium Friday night, intent upon foiling the Indian's plans for a second straight upset in the Semo Conference.

Noted for its ball-control tactics, Perryville will keep Jackson's linebackers busy with hard blocking on the line and the belly series inside and outside.

Pirate tackles Mike Littleton, 214 pounds, and Joe Long, 211, are the key men in the Perryville attack.

Larry Smith, Pirate quarterback, likes to earn his yardage by handing off to Roger Oster, fullback, and halfbacks Randy Taylor and Richard Tucker.

Though not noted for their passing attack, the Pirates can be dangerous in this department if trailing.

Perryville employs the Arkansas "monster man" defense, which features a roving line backer.

This combination has been successful against Poplar Bluff, Kennett, Potosi and Cairo, Ill.

Among common opponents, Sikeston and Charleston own victories over the Pirates. Jackson upset Sikeston last Friaday, and will meet Charleston in the season's finale.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the contest, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Perryville 20-Jackson 0.

DEXTER AT GIDEON

Dexter is expected to set up its important conference finish as it travels to Gideon. The Bearcats are 4-1 and trail Malden (6-0) in the Southern race. The two clubs clash next week in a Southern special.

Dexter turned in its best offense last week when it defeated Chaffee 45-13. It was only one point short of its total in previous conference games.

Gideon is 0-6 in the Southern Conference. Dexter 27-Gideon 7.

CAIRO AT EAST PRAIRIE

The Cairo Pilots will cross the mighty Mississippi to play the East Prairie Eagles tonight. Cairo's Jerry Zimmer has thrown 12 touchdown passes this year. He has made 37 out of 63 passes for a total of 900 yards gained. The Pilots have scored 153 points and have allowed 39. They have only been beaten twice this year.

East Prairie has a 1-6 record. They have a small team and they have really had a rough time scoring this year. Cairo 21-East Prairie, 6.

Puxico Indians At Doniphan Tonight

PUXICO -- The Puxico Indians will open their season Friday night at Doniphan.

Coach Grady Smith will have the following boys for his team: Dale Norris 6'3", Art Norris 6'2", Ralph Corse 6'1", Larry Anthony 5'11", Larry Olivers 6'1", Dennis Doublin 5'7", Glen Frances 5'11", Randy Schott 6'3", Greg Crites 5'10", Richard Keith 6'2", Basil Smith 5'10", and Jim King 6'11. Q—What is the brightest star we can see from earth?

A—Sirius, the Dog Star, in the constellation Canis Major, the Great Dog.

C.C. Scott Makes 4th Hole In One

Clarence Scott, Miner, registered another hole-in-one, his fourth, at the Sikeston Country Club Sunday afternoon.

He made his ace with a 150 yard drive on the sixth hole. He used a five iron.

He started his string of aces in 1938 at the Murphysboro, Ill., Country Club. That one was a 138 yard drive.

His second ace was made at Charleston in 1948. That drive covered 170 yards.

His third hole-in-one came on the Sikeston course in 1960.

Q—How long can a ribbon worm live without food?

A—A regenerating piece, or even an intact worm for that matter, can live for a year or more without food.

Missouri To Meet Colorado

Missouri's ninth - ranked Tigers collide with a tough and talented young colorado club Saturday at Boulder, Colo., in the Big Eight's top game. Second place and an eventual bowl bid will be at stake.

Missouri is a solid favorite, particularly if quarterback Gary Lane again shows the top form he had against Nebraska. The tigers will be in trouble if they have any letdown from the 16-14 loss to the Huskers.

Should it develop into a cliff-hanger, Colorado might have the edge with place kicker Frank Rogers, whose 11-for-15 field goal record this season is the best in Big Eight history. Missouri kicker Bill Bates was left at home with an ankle sprain.

Colorado, beaten only by Nebraska this season, stands 3-1-1 in league play with a tie against Iowa State. Missouri is 3-1.

Nebraska's unbeaten, third-ranked Huskers, shooting for a perfect season, are a strong favorite over Kansas, 2-2 in the league. Another overflow crowd of about 54,000 is expected at Lincoln.

A first division spot will be on the line at Norman, Okla., where 45,000 are expected to watch Oklahoma, 2-1, against Iowa State, 2-2-1.

Outside the league, injury, riddled Kansas State seeks its first victory in its final home game against Cincinnati, 3-4. Cincy is favored because of its strong ground game.

The Missouri-Colorado series has produced some humdingers at Boulder. In 1959, Gale Weidner's last two-period T.D. passes gave the Buffs a 21-20 upset. CU's 1961 league champs won 7-6 as Missouri lost on a two-point try.

Nebraska's biggest edge over Kansas is the backfield and at end with its great combination of Tony Jeter and Freeman White.

"Our offensive line is better than you think," said Jack Mitchell, Kansas coach. "Dick Pratt, 280, Mike Shinn, 232 and Bob Hudspeth, 266, have really helped us. The whole line is working well as a unit.

"But we don't have the breakaway speed and talent in the backfield to take advantage of their blocking."

College Football Roundup

Iowa, Rice and Kansas are teams in trouble.

The reason is simple: they play Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska, the nation's top three college football teams, Saturday.

While each of the big three has won seven games without losing any, Iowa has won only one of seven, Rice two of six and Kansas two of seven.

Iowa has the difficult task of stopping the No. 1 team in the country and in the process prevent the Spartans from clinching a tie for the Big Ten title.

Rice will try and delay second-ranked Arkansas' march to the Southwest Conference crown while Kansas will attempt to foil third-ranked Nebraska's championship intentions in the Big Eight.

In other games involving teams in the Top Ten, fourth-ranked Notre Dame plays Pitt; Alabama, No. 5, goes against Louisiana State in a night game; sixth-rated Southern California battles California; Georgia Tech, No. 7, is at Tennessee; eighth-ranked UCLA meets Washington; ninth-ranked Missouri takes on Colorado, and Kentucky, No. 10, plays Vanderbilt at night.

Michigan State never has won a Big Ten title although it tied Illinois for the 1953 crown. But if they get past Iowa, the Spartans have only Indiana to worry about.

Based on their record, the Spartans have little to fear. They own the best defense against rushing in the nation and are the second toughest team to score against. Per game, Michigan State opponents have gained only 57.4 yards on the ground and scored only 6.6 points.

Arkansas has its offense in high gear with Jon Brittenum's passing and Bobby Burnett's running sparking the way.

Larry Wachholtz, whose field goal beat Missouri last week, has an injured foot and may not play against Kansas, but Nebraska still should extend its winning streak.

Notre Dame plays a Pitt team that gave up 51 points last week, and Southern California meets a California team that gave up 56 points two weeks ago, then beat Penn State last week.

Alabama faces a tough battle with Louisiana State while Georgia Tech goes against Tennessee, which has allowed only 6.2 points a game.

UCLA tries to keep its Pacific Athletic Conference hopes alive against Washington, Missouri attempts to get back into the Big Eight race and Kentucky sends the nation's 10th best pass offense against Vanderbilt.

He reminds me of the man who murdered both his parents, and then, when sentence was about to be pronounced, pleaded for mercy on the grounds that he was an orphan.

Chicago Bears To Meet Baltimore

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young phenoms of the Chicago Bears meet the old pros from Baltimore Sunday in the big game of the pro football weekend. Can the Colts corral Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston? Can the Bears handle Johnny Unitas?

The old bromide that goes "on any given day, any team in pro football can beat any other team" was right in style last week. The roof fell in on the old Hand picker for a 3-8 day. That left the season totals 34-15 in the NFL, 14-10-3 in the AFL and 48-25-3 overall.

It also left the selector in a daze. Maybe November will be better. Let's try again: (all games Sunday)

NFL

Baltimore 31, Chicago 28 — Colts have won five straight since losing to the Packers 20-17. The Bears have won four in a row since bowing to Green Bay in their first meeting. Chicago got even with the Packers last week 31-10 and can move into the thick of the race with another victory.

Minnesota 34, Los Angeles 24 — They played a wild one on the Coast Oct 3, won by the Vikings 38-35 on a field goal by Fred Cox in the final seconds. Vikings' attack cracks any defense, especially the Rams' secondary.

Green Bay 20, Detroit 17 — This could be real close. The Lions held a 21-3 halftime lead when they met Oct. 17 but Bart Starr hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter and a 31-21 edge. Starr was shaken up last week and will need to be in top shape to withstand Lions' big rush.

Philadelphia 21, Cleveland 20 —This is really asking for trouble. The Browns figure to be hopping mad after that upset by the Vikings. Jim Brown made 133 yards against Eagles in first game but it took five interceptions to set up 35-17 margin.

St. Louis 27, Pittsbufgh 13 — Isn't there an easy one any more? If the Cards perform like they did at Yankee Stadium, the Steelers can knock them off. If Larry Wilson can't play, St. Louis can be hurting. Steelers rough on defense when bowing to Cards 20-7 Oct. 17. Could be another big day for Bill Triplett.

San Francisco 17, Dallas 14 — Loss of John Brodie has dropped 49ers into underdog role but they seem to pack too much offense in well-balanced attack.

New York 14, Washington 10 — Redskins on the move with two straight over Cards and Eagles. Much depends on condition of Charley Taylor and ability of Giants' rookie Spider Lockhart to handle Bobby Mitchell.

AFL

San Diego 24, Denver 17 — Lance Alworth caught seven for 211 yards when the Chargers edged the Broncos early 34-31. Denver looked bad in game with Jets last week. Chargers should bounce back from defeat by Boston and may take advantage of chink left by injury to corner man Willie Brown.

Kansas City 21, New York 17 — The Chiefs just did take the Jets 14-10 in their first meeting when Len Dawson hit Chris Burford with two TD passes. New York thinks it hit its stride last week in 45-10 romp over Denver. Buck Buchanan and Bobby Bell lead rugged rush.

Buffalo 20, Boston 17 — The Bills rolled over the Pats in the season opener 24-7 but that was before they lost Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass. Boston finally broke losing streak in San Diego and ache to get even for that loss to Buffalo in the snow last December. Close but Buffalo wins on its line.

Oakland 21, Houston 20 — George Blanda can't do it every week and the Oilers will have their hands full with rookie Fred Bilentnikoff if Al Davis can solve his quarterback problem.

Shoemaker To Try For $134,190 Purse

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker usually doesn't accept a mount in a big race unless he feels he has a good chance to win. He's taken on Lou Wolfson's Swift Lady for Saturday's rich Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park.

But even the top money winning jockey of them all could be whistling in the dark this time. To get the fat end of the probable $134,190 Gardenia purse he and his mount will have to beat Mocassin, undefeated in seven starts.

Moccasin is the 2-5 choice to canter home in the 1 1-16-mile stake for 2-year-old fillies. Thus far, the mighty miss from A. B. Hancock's Clarborne Farm hasn't even been extended.

Shoemaker, who will be seeking an unprecedented fourth Gardenia victory, is counting on some help to spring one of racing's big 1965 upsets.

"If something in the race Saturday can go out and run with Moccasin, Swift Lady would have a good shot at winning it," Shoemaker said. "Nobody has been able to run with her (Moccasin) yet, but there may be something in this race that will."

Swift Lady has faced Moccasin three times already and wound up second twice, fifth in the other. Her biggest win was in a division of the Astarita at Aqueduct. She is listed as the 5-1 second choice in the Gardenia.

Moccasin, to be ridden by Larry Adams, is considered speed crazy and hard to rate, but as trainer Harry Trotsek puts it, since nobody has been able to keep pace with her even he doesn't know what she'll do if given a stiff early run.

Probably figuring that even Man o' War and Native Dancer were beaten once, five of the eight other probable starters are paying $5,000 supplementary fees each for the shot at Moccasin.

For Joy, Prides Profile, Hula Girl, Lady Pitt and Lady Dulcinea all are supplementary entries. The other probable starters are Lady Diplomat, Wiley Road and Cherimoya.

Each carries 119 pounds with the probable post time 4 p.m., EST.

Lopez Has Turned In His Uniform

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The greatest baseball bridesmaid in history has turned in his uniform.

Al Lopez, 57, is through as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

He piloted two pennant winners in 15 years as a major league manager — in 1954 with the Cleveland Indians and in 1959 with the White Sox. His teams finished second 10 times.

Lopez, who guided the Sox for nine seasons, has talked about retirement since 1960. He made his decision finally to do it Thursday at a hastily called news conference.

For the last month, the Sox brass had contended that Lopez was "making up his mind." Owner Art Allyn and General Manager Ed Short apparently had hoped he would stay as field boss.

Lopez will remain with the organization as a vice president, serving as an adviser to Short. As such, his decisions will carry weight in all areas, including the choice of a new manager.

Short said he has a working list of as many as 22 names but conceded it would be easy to screen it down to five or six. He would not identify any.

Most frequently mentioned is Mayo Smith, a top scout of the New York Yankees and one of Lopez' gin-rummy and winter-time golfing buddies in Florida. He previously managed the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds.

Another is Charlie Metro, White Sox coach.

Lopez said Metro and his long-time friend, coach Tony Cuccinello, could do a good job but that was as far as talk went about his replacement.

"I'll be on 24-hour call and I'll go wherever Eddie (Short) wants," said Lopez. "If he wants me to spend some time at Indianapolis, or Lynchburg, or Portsmouth, or wherever we have some of our players, I'll drop in."

Short said Lopez had expressed a desire to quit the last few seasons.

"There's no doubt it was a letdown for him when we failed to win the pennant this year and finished second," said Short.

Frank Beard In Hawaiian Open

By JIM BECKER

HONOLULU (AP) — Will Pat Beard get her bikini? Or will she have to settle for a muumuu?

It all depends on how the putts drop for her golfing husband, Frank Beard, in the $60,300 Hawaiian Open over the Waialae Country Club course on the slopes of Diamond Head.

Al Geiberger, the slender, relaxed young star from California, will have a lot to say about it, too. He grabbed the first-round lead Thursday in the Open--first official Professional Golfers Association tournament ever held here — with a four-under-par 68, one stroke ahead of Beard.

"It doesn't mean anything," smiled Geiberger. "I led after the first round last week, too — and I finished eighth." That was at Almaden, Calif., where Bob Verwey of South Africa, Gary Player's brother-in-law, won it.

Verwey had a 75 Thursday, and Player is not entered. Neither are Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer or Tony Lema.

But the tour pros on hand had their hands full with the 7,000-yard, roughed-up course by the sea. Only eight broke par.

Beard, who got married last Saturday in New Orleans and brought Pat, a 21 - year - old blonde with a sheepdog haircut, to Honolulu for their honeymoon, was one stroke behind Geiberger along with slender Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex. Both had 69.

"I want to buy a bikini," said Pat, "but Frank won't let me. If he wins the tournament maybe he'll let me get one.

"Otherwise, I'll just buy some muu-muus." Those are the long flowered gowns that the missionaries brought to Hawaii, that all the girls wear hereabouts.

Mrs. Breedlove Breaks Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Craig Breedlove's husband became the fastest man on wheels last Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

So Thursday she did something about it.

Lee Breedlove jumped in her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I jet car and streaked across these western Utah Salt Flats to establish a world land speed mark for women — 308.5 miles per hour.

Of course, it wasn't quite keeping up — Breedlove roared to the 555.127 m.p.h. mark Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

But it gave her the same title — fastest.

The pretty, dark-haired Lee's new mark shattered the 277.15 m.p.h. record set last September by Betty Skelton of Detroit, who drove Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops.

Lee's ride Thursday was the first time anyone except her husband had driven the Good year Tire & Rubber Co.-sponsored jet car.

Lee, who said she had never driven competitively before, spent a few hours Wednesday getting acquainted with the jet car and its controls. She took only three practice runs Thursday morning before going for the record.

Her first test run was clocked at 99 m.p.h., the second at 187 and the third at 288. Her husband moved the throttle stop up after each run.

Breedlove beamed as he pulled her from the car after the record runs and lifted her to his shoulder to hear chief timer for the U.S. Auto Club, Joe Petralli, announce a new mark.

"The car handled fine," the 28-year-old brunette said later. "It moved around the track some on the last run, but it wasn't hard to control."

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who wakes his wife up at 2:00 A.M. to tell her to stop snoring? Clem started this a few months age when he retired from his job. I am NOT retired, however. Clem can sleep late in the morning but I can't.

Last night when Clem woke me up I got real mad. I asked him what in the world he thought he was accomplishing. He said, "Nothing is more annoying than being kept awake by a snorer. The snorer should stay up and keep his victim company."

Isn't this the meanest thing you ever heard of? I do not snore on purpose. If I could stop I would. What can I do? -- POOPED

Dear Pooped: First see a doctor and learn if he can do anything about your snoring. Sometimes minor surgery will eliminate the problem. If the doctor says it is more complicated in your case, buy a cot and sleep in another part of the house.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a member of America's most persecuted minority, an ex-convict.

Now that I have served my time, I can't get a job. First I was truthful and owned up to my record. The answer was, "We appreciate your honesty, but we can't hire you. It's against company policy."

After several such experiences I wrote "No" under the question, "Have you ever been convicted of a felony? Twice the truth came out and I was fired.

How can a person survive if he is unable to earn a living? I am 39 years old, in perfect health and willing to do any kind of legitimate work. I am a bachelor and can work 14 hours a day, six days a week. I will move anywhere.

I keep reading that at least two-thirds of those with records return to jail within 90 days, I'm sure many of them would have preferred to go straight but society would not let them. When a man finds all doors closed he loses his courage and dignity. Please, Ann Landers, I am begging you -- help me to be a useful citizen. -- WILLING NOT UNEMPLOYABLE.

Dear Willing: I am printing your letter and addressing my remarks to employers all over the U. S. A.:

Where would you be today if nobody gave you a second chance? Put yourself in this man's shoes. I am asking you to give a break to men who have records. Some will fail you, but the ones who come through will have been saved for all time. And such a man can well turn out to be the best employee you could have. In my book it's worth the chance.

Dear Ann Landers: I am going with a gentleman who is separated but not divorced. Kenny and I are together Monday through Thursday. On Friday he moves right in with his estranged wife and children -- suitcase and all.

Yesterday I told him to go back to his family full-time or stop sleeping over there. He answered, "I can always get another girl friend but I can never replace my wonderful children."

Why doesn't this dumb jerk realize that one day his "wonderful children" will get married and have lives of their own that don't include him? By that time he will have passed up a chance to make a new life for himself. Should I make Kenny choose between me and his family?--SWEET ADELINE

Dear Adeline: Wake up and smell the coffee, Lady. He has chosen. THEM. I'll bet an old Dewey button if you told Kenny to flake off he'd go back to his family on a full-time basis. If it's marriage you want, forget him. You are a sometime thing.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Canada Expects Pearson Triumph

OTTAWA (AP) — Rarely have Canadians approached a national election with such apathy as they have shown in the campaign now drawing to a close.

Various reasons have been given, but the most plausible appears to be a public conviction that Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal party will win in Monday's voting.

Public opinion polls and surveys virtually have ruled out a victory by Conservative Leader John G. Diefenbaker.

The main interest is in whether the Liberals will win a majority of the 265 House of Commons seats and thus be able to form a majority government. That was Pearson's objective in calling the election after 2½ years in office.

A veteran political writer for the Toronto Globe & Mail, who has visited all parts of the country, remarked: "Nowhere is it evident that the people who will vote on Nov. 8 are listening to what is being said. In truth, very little is being said that is worth listening to."

In one Quebec district, the Conservative candidate has found a way to stir interest. He opens his rallies with the first reel of a Brigitte Bardot film, speaks for half an hour, then shows the rest of the picture.

"The formula has been a smashing success," said candidate Gerard Vermette.

T.C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, blamed the lack of enthusiasm on what he called the disenchantment and disillusionment of the public with both Pearson and Diefenbaker.

Diefenbaker, 70, has concentrated his attack on what he calls "the mess" in Ottawa — meaning scandals which have embarrassed the Pearson government. These have not involved the prime minister directly, but several high-ranking aides were dropped for alleged bribery attempts and for implication in efforts to get the prison release of an accused narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard.

Pearson, 68, has sought to make the main issue the return of the Liberal party with a solid majority in the House of Commons so it need not depend upon the support of splinter parties.

One issue that was crucial in the 1963 election is notably missing. That was the question of accepting U.S. nuclear warheads for Canadian missiles. Since the Pearson government accepted them, this has become a dead issue.

Another issue which has played little part in the campaign is anti-Americanism. Criticism of the United States was a major part of Diefenbaker's 1958 campaign and it bobbed up to some extent in 1962. Diefenbaker now is supporting U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The two main questions on U.S.-Canadian relations that have come up in the present campaign are the pact on auto parts and the question of exporting Canadian water to the United States.

Diefenbaker charged that Canada got the short end of the auto parts pact and Canadian consumers got no benefits. Since then, price cuts on Canadian cars have been announced and Pearson says the issue is dead.

The controversy over water resources began when Pearson stated that Canada would discuss the question with U.S. officials. Diefenbaker charged that the Liberals were about to bargain away Canada's valuable water reserves. Pearson replied that Canada's requirements would be assured before any water was exported — and besides the whole thing was a long-term problem.

Both Pearson and Diefenbaker have given attention to the controversy over the role of French Canada in the country and future constitutional changes, but this is not expected to figure in the election outcome to any great extent.

The Liberals go into the election six seats short of a clear majority. They hold 127 of the 265 House Seats. The Conservatives have 92. New Democrats have 18, Creditiste 13, Social Credit 9, Independent 2, vacant. 4.

Seek Two Men After Delta Strong Armed Theft

DELTA -- Sheriff's officers were continuing today an investigation to pick up clues to the identity of two men who committed strong armed robbery against a 59-year-old Delta man on Tuesday and threatened to burn his home with him in it.

Sheriff John C. Crites said two men strong-armed Clarence Haman at his home north of Delta, tied him up, ransacked the home and threatened to set fire to the house with him tied up inside it.

The only clues available today, the sheriff said, were that the two men were well dressed, wearing suits, white shirts and ties, and drove a dark colored car.

Haman was left alone about 8 Tuesday morning when his two brothers, Walter Haman and Paul Haman, who live with him, went to Blomeyer to cut timber, Sheriff Crites said.

At about 9 o'clock Haman was working near the barn when a car stopped at the house and two men got out. The dwelling is located on Route N.

The sheriff related that the men asked Haman to use the telephone and he invited them into the house.

Inside, the Men grabbed Haman, tied his wrists at his back with tape and bound his feet with a belt. He was taken to a couch where he was threatened and later taken to a bedroom where he was also blindfolded, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Crites said the men threatened to burn the house with Haman inside if he did not tell them where the money was.

The robbers then proceeded to ransack the house and when they left, Haman still tightly bound, was afraid they could carry out the threat. He was a bit dazed yet today.

Sheriff Crites said Haman related he worked his feet free sometime later and was able to get off the blindfold.

He walked a quarter mile through a field to where Cletus Givens, a neighbor, was planting wheat, and Givens cut the tape free from his wrists. This was about 2:30 in the afternoon, and Mr. Haman had been bound up about five hours.

Haman then returned to his home, where he was joined by his brothers. Sheriff Crites and Highway Patrolman Robert Mouser were called to the scene at that time.

The sheriff said the robbers thoroughly tore the house apart, ripping up the sofa, chairs, mattresses. The television set and radio were also taken apart. A hole was even cut in the steps leading upstairs, the sheriff said.

Closets were torn apart, drawers, shelves and trunks ransacked. However, Sheriff Crites said, the robbers apparently got only a few dollars and some household items.

The robbers apparently did not use a gun, Sheriff Crites said, and little about them could be learned from Haman, shaken by the experience.

Book Takes Reader To Wilderness

August 16 was publication date for the eleventh volume in the Sierra Club's exhibit format series, THE WILD CASCADES: FORGOTTEN PARKLAND, by Harvey Manning, with lines from Theodore Roethke and a foreword by Justice William O. Douglas. Photographs by Ansel Adams, Philip Hyde, David Simons, Bob and Ira Spring, Clyde Thomas, John Warth, and others.

The Wild Cascades carries the reader into the last of our primeval landscapes: the Northern Cascades of Washington. But for its remoteness, this natural parkland would long ago have been one of our greatest national parks. The few who knew it found it without peer. As early as 1906, mountaineers who visited the area suggested that the North Cascades be placed in a national park. And in the 1930's a survey team for the National Park Service concluded that a national park in the Northern Cascades could "outrank in its scenic, recreational, and wildlife values any existing national park and any other possibility for such a park within the United States." Now in the 1960's another Park Service survey team has corroborated this judgment.

Earlier failures to respond to the judgments of those who knew the North Cascades and knew they should have been made secure within a national park left the region no worse than it had been. But the prospects for survival have now changed--drastically. This once remote region of tangled alps and deep-treed valleys is no longer remote. Bulldozers have pushed up the once hidden valleys to let the chainsaws clear the forests. The Forest Service, unable to resist the pressures of the loggers, has let the cutting climb to within less than a mile of hanging glaciers. The living matrix for this splendid parkland is being extinguished. And the land above timerline is not exempt from exploitation either. Helicopters are ferrying in mining parties who are staking vast areas in problematical claims. The Forest Service is not empowered to stop such mining in even the most priceless part of this parkland.

Surely legal protection commensurate with the grandeur of this area can be accorded. A law establishing a national park there can provide this protection. The Wild Cascades makes it clear why this protection is needed, and why the nation must wait no longer.

Harvey Manning was born in Seattle. He has been climbing mountains since 1948. A graduate of the University of Washington, he edits the alumni magazine of that institution. He is a director and editor for the North Cascades Conservation Council, the author of several books on mountaineering and a frequent contributor to books and journals dealing with conservation topics.

Theodore Roethke was widely recognized as a major modern American poet before his sudden tragic death in Seattle during August of 1963. A brilliant teacher as well as a poet, he last taught at the University of Washington and became a dominant figure in the literary life of the Pacific Northwest. The winner of a Pulitzer Prize in 1953, he is also twice the recipient of National Book Awards for THE FAR FIELD WORDS FOR THE WIND.

David Brower, Executive Director of the Sierra Club, is also the executive editor of the Sierra Club's publishing program, and the winner of the Carey-Thomas award for "the best example of creative publishing in 1964."

In an engineering seminar the instructor was explaining the process of "brainstorming" a problem. He pointed out that the subconscious mind works independently and will sometimes provide a seemingly spontaneous solution to a problem.

"Why, sometimes you'll even wake up in the middle of the night with a good idea," he exclaimed. "True," rejoined the class wit, "but your wife won't always go along with it."

Death Takes Holiday

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. AP --Death is taking a strange holiday in California.

The little green-walled, two-chair gas chamber in San Quentin State Prison - where four women and 190 men have paid with their lives for crimes-has executed no one in almost three years.

Death row, originally set up to house 34 condemned men, now has 47. Two have been there more than eight years.

Twenty more also would be there were it not for appeals now part of the courtroom log-jam likely to prolong the moratorium on executions indefinitely.

There's an irony in this. Gov. Edmund G. Brown tried to get the legislature to abolish capital punishment. It wouldn't do it. Then he asked for a moratorium on executions. The legislature turned him down. Now, in effect, he has it anyway.

The last execution was on Jan. 23, 1963. Since then a steady buildup of death row inmates has conformed to the routine of being locked up 20 1/2 hours out of 24 in 4 1/2 -x-11-foot cells. Under armed guard, the condemned men exercise the other 3 1/2 hours in a fenced enclosure. Their view of the world outside is what they see on television screens at night.

"The absence of executions in California for nearly three years is primarily the result of various court decisions including the Morse, Dorado and Griffin decisions," explained Walter Dunbar, director of the California Department of Corrections.

He capsuled these State Supreme Court rulings:

"Morse decision -- During the penalty trial -- in California the penalty is determined in a trial separate from that on the verdict -- no reference can be made to the fact that men with life sentences are eligible for parole in seven years.

"Dorado decision -- A suspect must be informed of his right to remain silent, his right to an attorney and the fact that anything he says may be used against him in court.

"Griffin decision --No reference can be made in court to the defendant's failure to testify on the witness stand."

Since the Jan. 7, 1964 Morse decision, rendered in the case of a San Diego teen-ager convicted of killing his mother with a rock and his sister with a baseball bat, there have been 26 penalty reversals based on it. Eleven killers have been retried and are back on death row.

Three got a switch from the gas chamber to life. One was Iva Kroeger, the eccentric sharp - tongued grandmother who buried a strangled couple in the basement of her San Francisco house so she could take over their auto court.

Legal breaths are held over this staggering question --does failure to tell a man, before he confesses, of his rights open retrial doors for cases going back into the past?

The California Supreme Court has ruled these can go no further back than June 22, 1964, date of a U. S. Supreme Court decision on which the California Dorado decision was based. Now California's attorney general waits for a U. S. Supreme Court review affirming this.

Otherwise, said the California Supreme Court, it "would impose impossible burdens upon the administration of justice."

The chief justice of the California Supreme Court, Roger J. Traynor emphasized recently that the courts are not "coddlers of criminals," adding:

"They deal sternly with those who take the law in their own hands. When they insist that an accused be brought into court and tried by fair procedures, even if it entails a new trail, they may slow down the speed of justice but they also give every man assurance that, should he ever be brought to court, he will be brought to justice fairly."

Because you prayed
The dwellers in the dark
Have found the light;
The glad good news
Has banished pagan night;
The message of the Cross,
So long delayed.
Has brought them light at last
Because you prayed.

Old Tractor Makes Lots of Sorghum

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. AP --Ralph Coan's old farm tractor goes round and round, but it hasn't plowed a furrow in years.

But it has helped him and his wife, Mary, literally squeeze a living from those rocky Ozark foothills by driving their sorghum molasses mill.

Coan began making "sorghums," as he calls the thick, tangy molasses, in his native Clay County, Ind., in 1921.

"We used to make a lot of sorghum for railroad crews passing through our area," he related. "I guess that's how I got started. Those were the best days."

The Coans moved to Missouri in 1957 and settled on a small farm 10 miles south of here. They immediately started making molasses with power furnished by a horse named Bob. But Bob died the next winter and Coan began looking around for some other way to turn his sorghum mill. "A neighbor of mine, an old Negro preacher, had started making sorghum about that time and he came up with the idea of hiching up his old tractor to run in a circle," Coan recalled. "He showed me how to do it and it's worked for me ever since."

Coan's mill is an assembly of vertical steel rollers squeezing the juice from the sorghum stalks. A long hardwood pole is connected to the mill on one end and the other is hooked to the rear of the tractor.

The tractor's steering wheel is wired down so that the old machine churns slowly in a 30-foot circle around the mill. One of Mrs. Coan's jobs is feeding the sorghum, grown in a nearby field, into the jaws of the mill.

The brownish juice runs from a spout under the mill's rollers into a gathering bowl. It then flows by gravity underground through a rubber hose into a 55-gallon storage barrel near the metal cooking vat.

The shallow vat, 10 feet long and mounted over a concrete fire box, is four inches deep where the juice is ladled in and about an inch in depth where the molasses is drawn off. A series of hand-adjusted baffles controls the flow of juice through four stages of cooking.

As he stands and lifts off the "skimmin's," Coan can tell when the molasses is ready by its appearance as it drips from his perforated ladle. He figures it takes about eight gallons of juice to make a gallon of "honey drip" molasses.

The Coans, he is 74 and his wife, 61, begin making molasses early in September. Depending on how cold the weather gets, they usually continue until the middle of December. They sell all they make to motorists passing by on U. S. 160. It goes for $3 a gallon.

Coan says he knows of no other such mill operating in his area.

"We're just poor folks," says Mrs. Coan, "but we work and make sorghum to stay ahead."

She said it was a hard way to make a living, but added:

"I'd rather get out and work hard than live off the other fellow."

Club Listens to In-Law Talks

MATTHEWS -- "Being A Good In-Law" was the phase of human relations selected for discussion in extension clubs this year.

The discussion at the Community club meeting Wednesday at the Community Center was led by Mrs. Troy Tippett and Mrs. B. B. Conrad.

The leaders presented illustrations on points of conflict between mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law--fathers and sons-in-law were touched on slightly.

Members were then invited to contribute viewpoints.

Mimeographed material on "Developmental Tasks of the Wife and Mother in the Middle Years" was distributed for further study.

"Family Circle" a film from the extension service concerning other aspects of family relationships, was shown.

Mrs. Charles G. Lindley, club president, presided. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Frank Stanley. Mrs. Lloyd Eby gave a report on the county council integration meeting. A committee was appointed to present a slate of officers to be elected at the November meeting.

Mrs. W. H. Gilmer, Sr., who was welcomed as a new member, showed a holiday door wreath she had made from corn husks and pine cones mounted on a plastic base, sprayed with gold paint and decorated with tree ornaments.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alfred Byrd and Mrs. Eby.

Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, the date of the next meeting was moved to Nov. 17 when Mrs. William Depro and Mrs. Floyd Hawes will be in charge of the program.

A Halloween masquerade party and potluck supper was held at the Community Center Saturday by members of the Community club, volunteer firemen, and their families.

Mrs. Charles G. Lindley, Mrs. Robert Burch, Mrs. Gene Warren, and Mrs. Charles Andrew were in charge of the decorations.

Three prizes in three age groups and categories were awarded the masqueraders. Games were played following supper.

Reports on the fall festival were made by Eugene Warren, president, and William N. Roberts, treasurer. Both organizations will elect officers to represent them on the fall festival board at the next meeting.

In observance of American Education Week, Sunday through Saturday, parents of students at Matthews R-V school are invited to schedule individual conferences with grade school teachers regarding their child's progress and to inspect samples of their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fairies and Mrs. Harold Burch returned Monday from Flint, Mich., where they visited with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vann and son, Michael, of Searcy, Ark., visited during the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Vann.

Mrs. Alice Meyers and Mrs. Ruth Gardner of Skiatook, Okla., visited last week with their aunt, Mrs. J. F. Thornburgh, and daughter, Mrs. W. L. Medlin.

Mrs. Lyman Whitten underwent ear surgery at a Memphis, Tenn., hospital last week. She is now adjusting to sounds, which seem amplified to the person whose hearing is restored by the operation.

Youth groups of the Christian Church went "Trick or Treating" for UNICEF at 5 p.m. Sunday. A brief dedication service for the $30.96 collected for underprivileged children of the world was led by the minister, Rev. Larry Long. A party for the youngsters followed in the church basement. Prizes for the best costumes for the preschool age group went to Douglas Scott and Michael Long; for the beginners: Linda Greene and Judy Eby; for intermediates to Kimberly Romines and Rosetta Whitten.

Highway Death Toll Up In Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A total of 347 Norwegians have been killed in road accidents this year, the National Council for Safe Traffic says. This is an increase of 45 compared with the 302 killed over the same period last year.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Dr. and Mrs. Lewell Butler purchased a home in a fashionable suburb last spring. They had 45 truck loads of dirt hauled in for a yard and eight pounds of grass seed put down.

Soon green sprigs began popping up — mustard greens and turnip greens. A batch gathered for cooking was pronounced tender and delicious. The Butlers figure the seed store got its seeds mixed up.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — B. P. Lozier has filed for divorce, charging his wife Isobel deserted him in 1933, two years after their marriage.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Scandinavian Airlines System will, along with a number of major international airlines, take part in the United Nations' current drive to help the refugees of the world.

Rome And The American Labor Union

By Rev. John E. Coogan, S.J.

QUESTION: It would surely be difficult to question the wisdom of Pope Leo's urging that workers be prudent and spiritually minded in their choice of union membership. And it would be equally difficult to see why they should not have such a choice of membership. Is there, though, any other notable papal document that you would cite as supporting the right to work principle?

The most notable declaration bearing on compulsory unionism in recent years is the 1960 letter communicated to Semarine Sociale, Grenoble, France, by Cardinal Tardini, papal Secretary of State, for John XXIII. The letter had to do with excessive socialization, threatening dehumanization. "Modern man," the Pope says, "sees that the sphere in which he can think for himself, act on his own initiative, exercise his responsibilities, and affirm and enrich his personality is in many cases restricted to an excessive degree." The Holy Father agrees that trade unions can be helpful, but the unions he has in mind he describes as "forms of free and spontaneous associations, well ordered and oriented." But membership even in these rare unions must be "offered to, not imposed upon the free choice of mankind." That of course is a statement of the right to work principle: that union membership be offered to, not imposed upon the free choice of mankind. If the individual is to choose union membership, Pope John continues, let it be "the result of a free and justified choice of careful thought about himself, his destiny and that of the world."

Some clerical champions of compulsory unionism have insisted the Holy Father was there condemning compulsory membership only in socialistic European unions, although he spoke no word of such limitation. In fact, the unions he referred to he called potentially good and helpful; that description he would not have given a socialist union. But the futility of all such evasions of the papal document was proclaimed a few months later by the some 220 archbishops and bishops of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in their 1960 annual statement, on Personal Responsibility. Those bishops accepted the Semaine Sociale letter as fully pertinent to the American situation and very important.

The clerics who had denied the pertinence of the Semaine Social letter to America had made the same denial about the pertinence of America of the Christmas Message of Pius XII in 1952, condemning union domination. There the Holy Father complained that "access to employment or to places of labor is made to depend upon registration in certain parties or in certain organizations which trace their origin to the labor market. Such discriminations are indicative of a wrong concept of the proper function of labor unions and of their essential purpose, which is the protection of the interests of the wage earner within modern society, which has become more and more anonymous and collectivist." That that Message was not meant only for socialist Europe but also for America was made manifest by its specific reference to the "free world," and through its application to the Canadian international unions -- our own American unions -- by Pope John in his 1960 letter to the Canadian Social Week.

A long-playing record, "International Piano Festival," on which six of the world's outstanding pianists have recorded works by their favorite composers, will be sold on board SAS planes in international traffic, beginning in early November.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. J. Millard Tawes will lead a five-man delegation of Marylanders on a visit this month to the state of Rio de Janeiro in Brazil, Maryland's sister state in the Partners of the Alliance program. The group will leave the United States Nov. 14.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — About 4,000 Jamaican farm workers are to be flown to Florida to help harvest the sugar crop by Nov. 29, a spokesman for the Labor Ministry says.

STRABANE, Northern Ireland (AP) — The city of Strabane has unveiled a plaque marking the home of John Dunlap, who first printed the U.S. Declaration of Independence.

Tangerines, Turkeys, Yams Go Into Stores

Tangerines and turkeys are moving into the nation's grocery stores, along with cranberries and yams, in increasing numbers as the holidays approach.

The Florida tangerine crop is smaller than last year's, but there are imports from Mexico to take up the slack. There are plenty of oranges, grapefruit and tangelos, but the line crop was cut by hurricane damage.

Shoppers may look for some good buys in canned and frozen vegetables in the months ahead, with big crops of cabbage, lima beans, snap beans, sweep corn and peas for processing.

The tomato harvest, however, is down from last year, with the California crop off 21 per cent.

Cucumber prices are down, and peppers and parsley are plentiful. Fresh eggplant, squash and bean prices are higher in some areas.

Turkey, broilers, fryers, veal, ground beef, roasts, steaks and liver are in good supply, along with pork chops, roast and ham and lamb chops and roasts.

Chevalier Ageless at 76

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When I was 75, I thought that would be the end of my career. But then I became 76 and the offers still kept coming in and I was still performing at the height of my powers. So I just kept on going."

Now Maurice Chevalier is 78 and going stronger than ever.

At least he advertises himself as 78, calculating his age in the European manner. He considers himself in his 78th year, since he was born in 1888.

Whatever his age, Chevalier remains one of the marvels of the Western world. No one is more aware of the fact than Chevalier.

Career is the one great passion of his life, and he speaks of it with eloquence. He reported the triumphs of his 75th year — a stand at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, runs in Chicago, Washington, South America, London, ending with appearances in his beloved Paris.

"And I did it the hard way — just one man and a piano," said Chevalier. "No one else has been able to do that, certainly not at such an advanced age. Harry Lauder couldn't. Al Jolson finished when he was 45. Later he was a sensation again, but with someone else's face and body. That wasn't quite as good as Jolson."

Feeling no diminution of his power, as a draw and as a human machine, Chevalier told himself: "Dammit, why should I quit?"

He didn't. He continues at a merry clip, taking his one-man show to far-off places, lending his charm to television--a tribute to Cole Porter coming up at Thanksgiving — and to films. He is now at Walt Disney's fun factory for the first time, portraying a priest in "Monkeys Go Home" with Dean Jones and Yvette Mimieux.

The hair is silver-gray, but Chevalier's face is as pink as a baby's and there is a lightness in his step. His regimen is that of a fighter, which is what he was, early in the game.

When will the Chevalier legend end?

"Now I am planning a grand tour for my 80th year on the same scale as when I was 75," he said.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Father John LaFarge, a great man with great talents, worked all of his life in the area of social problems. He founded or helped found the Catholic Association for International Peace, the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, the Liturgical Arts Society and St. Ansgar's League for Scandinavians, but gave most of his long life to the cause of justice and equality for the American Negro. In 1934 he founded the Catholic International Conference of New York. From this beginning grew the present network of 120 councils coast to coast, with national headquarters in Chicago.

Still going strong in his 83rd year, Father LaFarge, elder statesman of the religious work for Negroes in the United States, helped achieve the historic 1963 Interfaith Conference on Religion and Race held in Chicago. That conference put America's religious leaderships behind the Negroes' cause. He died two years ago, after a life of dedication to international peace and racial and religious tolerance.

667,567 Visit West Side Of Berlin

BERLIN (AP) Officials say 1,667,567 East German pensioners visited West Germany and West Berlin between Nov. 1, 1964, and Sept. 30 this year. They said only a fraction of a per cent of the visitors failed to return to their Communist homeland. The East German regime permitted the pensioners' visits.

IRVINE, Ky. (AP) There are no classes at the Granny Richardson School— but there is an oil well. Classes ended at the one-room school early in 1964. But the property has continued to pump money into the Estill County school system because of an oil well on the property.

Supt. Douglas Miller said the well, dug in the 1920s, provides more money than would be derived from selling the property.

BOSTON (AP) —Massachusetts operates the only highway traffic light on Interstate 95 from Bangor, Maine, to Virginia.

The one traffic light had to be installed after completion of an interchange to get northbound travelers over into parts of Peabody west of U.S. 1. Once the traveler hits Massachusetts 128, he can drive to the Massachusetts Turnpike entrance at Weston with a clear way south to Petersburg, Va.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) —The Irish Republic has placed an immediate import levy of 10 to 15 per cent on many classes of consumer goods, including automobiles and radio and television sets.

A government announcement said the levy was necessary to combat a balance of payments condition that has been worsening since 1964.

WASHINGTON (AP) —Army engineers will get $800,000 to start surveys and plans for a $227-million hydroelectric and flood control project on the upper St. John River in Maine.

The project would be the first federal hydroelectric project in New England.

'I Spy Offbeat Success'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the apparent hits of the new television season is an offbeat adventure series, "I Spy," which features a pair of on-the-beat stars, Robert Culp and Bill Cosby.

They combine well, Culp with his crisp but sensitive style, Cosby with a wise humor. Both are sturdily athletic, which comes in handy when required to race across scenery on Hong Kong and Japan locations.

Aside from the fact that "I Spy" seems to possess quality in a season grimly lacking in it, the notable feature of the series is that one of the costars is a Negro.

Bill Cosby views this fact with unconcern. He was skeptical when producer Sheldon Leonard suggested it a year ago. "When it happens, I'll believe it," he said.

It happened, and Cosby is now merely trying to do a job regardless of his race. That has been true throughout his fast-rising, three-year career. His comedy routines in night clubs, concerts and television have largely concerned the joys and sorrows of urban living.

On "I Spy" itself, race is neither stressed nor ignored.

"There is little reference to race, except the kind of comment that one Italian might say about another Italian," Cosby explained. "We certainly don't do any racial jokes. There's no occasion for it between Bobbie and me. We consider each other as Kelly Robinson and Alexander Scott, not as a white man and a Negro."

Only three Deep South television stations refused to accept the Wednesday night NBC show, according to Cosby. "Apparently we had no problem getting sponsors," he added. "In fact, I understand they are now standing in line."

He considers the show an advance for Negro actors in general and himself in particular.

"The series has been a tremendous gain for my career," he said. "I'm losing money, compared to what I would be making as a comedian, but I will make it up next year. The important thing is that film producers are already thinking of me in terms of roles as a human being, and not merely as a servant or a runaway slave."

Matter of Fact

The infamous sea lamprey is an eel-shaped, parasitic, scaleless, bloodsucking fish which sometimes attains a length of three feet. During the early 1930s the sea lamprey found its way into the Great Lakes. Its first and principal victims were lake trout, which it almost succeeded in exterminating to the point of extinction until a government control program was directed against the pests.

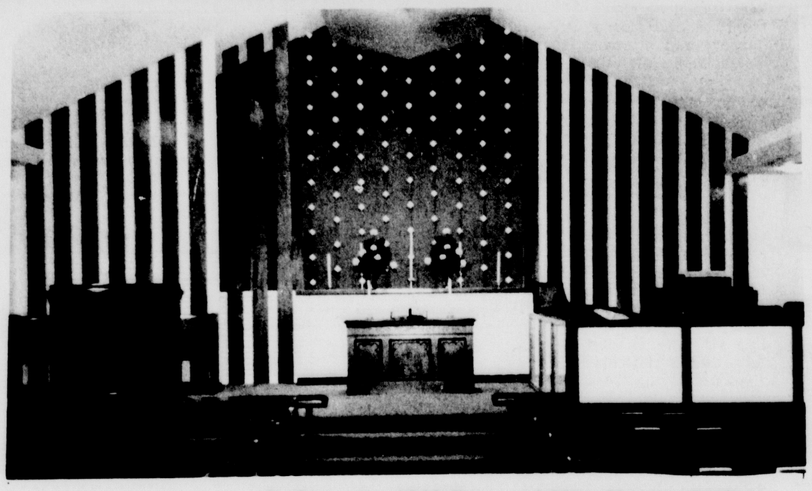
#2 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Saluting:

The Church Of God

Rev. Oral Withrow



A small group of Church of God people began prayer meetings and occasional services in 1938 in Sikeston. For over two years a small group worshiped in the home of their pastor, Rev. J. B. Brunk, on Matthews Street. Two tent revivals were held during this time--one on a lot behind the present Nailling Tractor Company building, and the other on the lot presently occupied by the McDougal Insurance Agency. Some of the persons who worshiped with this first group were Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keasler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thurmond, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Brunk, and Mrs. Laura Lathom.

In 1941 the O. C. Lewis family moved to Sikeston and the erection of the first unit of the present church sanctuary was completed under the leadership of Rev. Lewis. In May, 1941 the service of dedication was the first service in the new building and the small group of Christians began to grow as a congregation.

A Sunday School was organized that same month with thirty enrolled. Rev. Lewis served ably as the first pastor leading in a growth to sixty-five average attendance. In June, 1943 a full time pastor, Rev. H. McDonough, was called. During the ministry of Rev. McDonough the church grew to an average attendance above the one-hundred mark. During this period the church purchased the present pastorium at 228 Sikes.

In January, 1946 Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Guttenfelder accepted the charge of the local pastorate and led Tanner Street Church of God in one of its most fruitful eras of service. During the twelve years of leadership under the Guttenfelders the church increased its average attendance beyond the two hundred mark. Also a new Christian Education building was attached to the original structure in 1947, a recreational fellowship building was added in 1952, and in 1956 the sanctuary was enlarged to its present size by an addition of a side chapel. The Guttenfelders were greatly loved by the community; being very talented musicians, they were used widely in various types of programs. Through their efforts, principally, two choirs, an orchestra, and many small singing groups were organized.

Rev. E. D. Johnson served the church as pastor from 1957 to 1961. Among other accomplishments was the purchase of an organ for the church sanctuary.

The present minister, Rev. Oral Withrow, and his family moved to Sikeston in June, 1961 to assume the ministerial leadership of the Tanner Street Church. In 1964 the church completed a remodeling and construction program which doubled the size of the facilities for the Tanner Street Church.

The church echoes the theme of the radio broadcast it sponsors each week over KSIM at 8 a.m. on Sunday: "A United Church For a Divided World."

Today in U.S. History

Today is Friday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1965. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected to a third term.

In 1605, a conspiracy for blowing up the English Parliament was uncovered before it could succeed.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony, the crusader for women's votes, cast her ballot at Rochester, N. Y., and was later prosecuted for illegal voting.

In 1930, Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

In 1940, election returns were telecast for the first time.

In 1942, Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery announced that the British had won a complete and absolute victory in Egypt.

Ten years ago — France formally recognized Mohammed Ben Youssel as the sultan of Morocco.

Five years ago--John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon were winding up their campaigns for the presidency.

One year ago—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China arrived in Moscow to attend Russia's celebration of the 48th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Metal Stud Tires Illegal In 2 States

ST. LOUIS AP --Snow tires with metal studs, which are being widely advertised, are illegal in Illinois and Missouri, state officials said.

Francis S. Lorenz, Illinois public works director, said the uniform act regulating traffic on highways bars motor vehicles equipped with "any antiskid or nonslip device so constructed that any rigid or nonflexible portion comes in contact with the pavement."

The Illinois attorney general has held the use of metal studded tires to be illegal.

A spokesman for the Missouri Highway Department said manufacturers and dealers have been warned that the tires violate a section of state law prohibiting the use of metal tires or lugs on improved highways.

Chains apparently do not come under the laws of the two states.

Officials said both laws were passed to avoid damage to highways by metal devices that might dig into the pavement.

Q—What is the name of the long stick an artist rests his hand on while painting?

A—Maulstick.

Q—What country is the world's greatest coffee grower?

A—Brazil.

A Friend "In Deed"

Jerry Lewis, national chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, gets a warm kiss from MDAA's 1965 poster child, Paul Carter Hawkins of Dillon, Montana. The famous comedian has helped to raise millions of dollars for research into the progressively crippling disease whose chief victims are young children like Paul. MDAA's annual fund raising drive, the March Against Muscular Dystrophy, is now under way in this community.

Mrs. Mumma, Gideon Pioneer, Dies In Dexter

GIDEON -- Mrs. Lucy Cole Mumma, 81, died Monday in the Comeau Convalescent Manor in Dexter.

She came with her family to Gideon in 1900 when the town was founded, and on May 27 she married F. D. Mumma.

Her husband died in 1947. He was affiliated with the Gideon-Anderson Lumber Company.

Surviving are her children, Mrs. Mary Raspberry of Holcomb and Morris R. Mumma of Ridgewood, N. J.; four grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Mumma made her home in Gideon until she suffered a stroke a little more than three years ago. She was a charter member of the Gideon Methodist Church and a life-long Methodist.

She was born July 27, 1884, in Ashley, Ill., daughter of C. F. and Addie Brown Meentemeyer.

Services were Wednesday, at 2 p.m. in the Methodist Church with Rev. Richard Alexander and Rev. James Sweet in charge. Burial was in Malden Park cemetery with Russell Mortuary services.

Hayti Electrical Contractor Dies

HAYTI -- Charles, "Hot" Ray, 39-year-old electrical contractor, died at his home, Monday morning after suffering a third heart attack.

He was born October 10, 1926 at Bernie. He was the son of James Ray and Mrs. Geneva Ray of Hayti.

He married Opal Rayburn at Piggott, Ark., March 8, 1947.

Survivors include: his wife, two sons, Larry and Terry Ray; one daughter, Mrs. Diane Palermo of Blytheville; mother, Mrs. Geneva Ray of Hatyi; two brothers, James Ray of Hayti and Vernon Ray of Steele; a sister, Ruth Jenkins of Hayti; and a host of other relatives and friends.

Services were Wednesday at 2 p.m. at First Methodist Church, with Rev. Wilford House of Charleston and Rev. Ronald Unser of Hayti officiating. Burial was in Pemiscot Memorial Gardens, with John W. German Funeral Home Service.

Verna Vaughn, Morehouse, Dies

MOREHOUSE -- Verna Mae Vaughn, 33, died at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Farmington. She was born June 10, 1932 in Morehouse.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Vaughn, Morehouse; four sisters, Mrs. Daisy Patton, Charleston; Mrs. Evelyn Webb, St. Louis; Miss Kathryn Vaughn and Mrs. Mary Cantrell, both of Sikeston; four brothers, Raymond Vaughn, Canalou, Tony L. Vaughn, West Monroe, La., W. H. Vaughn and Jim Vaughn, both of Sikeston.

The body is at the Jackson Funeral Home.

Sam Brown's Body Returned

POPLAR BLUFF -- The body of Sam Brown, 53 year-old resident, who was shot to death Tuesday in Sikeston, was returned to the Lee-Peoples Funeral Home.

Among the survivors are his wife, Mrs. Frances Brown; three sons, Eugene, Cornelius and Terry, and six daughters, Lavern, Linda, Janice, Esielene, Peggy Lee and Annette Brown, his mother, Mrs. Emna Moore, West Memphis, Ark.; one brother who lives in Madison, Ill., and his stepmother, Mrs. Isabella Brown, Broseley.

Cape Resident For 50 Years Dies

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 50-year resident of Cape Girardeau, Mrs. Celis Marie Heuschober, 72, died Thursday at 8:35 p.m. in a hospital.

Born January 11, 1892, she married Wm. H. Heuschober in 1909 at Jackson. He died in 1955.

Surviving are: three sons, Wm. Heuschober and Elton Heuschober, Cape Girardeau, and Howard Heuschober, Richmond, Calif.; five daughters, Mrs. Wm. Lehne, Mrs. Virgil Cotner, and Mrs. Clarence McLard, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. James Hodges, East Prairie; a sister, Mrs. Tony Mueller, Overland; 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

She was a member of Maple Avenue Methodist Church, the WSCS and the Royal Neighbors.

Services will be Sunday at 2 p.m. in Maple Avenue Church with the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Propst officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at Ford and Sons Funeral Home.

Is It Old Fashioned To Jump When A Customer Calls??

A lot of people think so. Is it old fashioned to say "Thank You" or be sincerely appreciated? ? Some say it is.

Well. . . do business with some old fashioned people. We are not old fashioned when it comes to up-dated ideas. We are not old fashioned when it comes to modern insurance coverages but we are as old fashioned as all get out when it comes to appreciating our customers.

You know something. . .We are going to keep it that way. Oh! We are going to buy new office machines...go to every school we can. . .spruce up our office, but we are going to stay old fashioned when it comes to dealing with you.

Our customers like us this way. You should do business with old fashioned people. They will enjoy doing business with you.

Running Horse Cafe Morehouse, Missouri

Straight From The Horse's Mouth

It's been too long since we have written a report on "The Running Horse Cafe." I had to take time out the latter part of March and have a heart attack. When I finally got back in the saddle, I found that we had a lot of irons in the fire, but none of them very hot. Now we're ready to throw a few cobbs on the fire and pick up where we left off.

Things have been going good. We have managed to keep the payments made, we have some real fine people working with us, and hope we can get "The Running Horse" operating just as smoothly as a newly oiled gate. To get rolling, we have a couple of new things coming up that we want you to know about. We have a new pressure chicken fryer that's a little dandy. It will cook chicken done to the bone in just 8 minutes -- takes us about 9 minutes - our chickens are larger -- and comes out a delicious golden brown and seasoned to a T. It's juicy right to the last bite. Now when you combine this kind of chicken -- we call it flavor-crisp -- with some potatoes, cole slaw, cracklin gravy, and hot rolls, you are living high on the chicken. Of course, you can buy this flavor-crisp chicken every day. But, to introduce this new chicken, we have rigged up a little special. Here's the deal. Every Monday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. we are going to have "Family Night". That means that we are going to serve you all the flavor-crisp chicken, potatoes, slaw, and home made hot rolls you can eat for just $1.00 per person. We will have plenty on the table, but if it's not enough just tell the waitress you need some more and it will be hustled right out. How's that for a deal? Why don't you bring the family over Monday night and see if we can deliver the goods.

We have a new menu that should be ready in a few days too. We think we have improved it. We have taken away the summer foods and added some winter dishes that we think you will like.

There are some other things we need to tell you about, but this thing is getting long winded. So - we will report again before long.

Thank you so much for your business, and don't forget that every Monday night is "Family Night". That means all the flavor-crisp chicken you can eat for just one buck per person.

Sincerely yours,
The Running Horse Cafe
